SALT LAKE CITY, Utah Dec. 17.—Search by air, held up for 48 hours by fog and snowstorm, was launched today in an effort to locate the luxury Los Angeles-to-Salt Lake Western Air Express liner missing since early Tuesday with seven persons aboard.

Augmenting the hunt by corps of men combing the rugged terrain south of here, a United Air Lines plane piloted by Frank Chrisman and carrying several officials of the company took off from the airport here at 9 a. m.

To Fly Over Area.

Chrisman said he intended to fly over the Pleasant Grove-Alpine district, about 30 miles south of here, where the missing plane was reported to have been heard a few minutes before it was due at Salt Lake airport.

The airliner was the first of a squadron of army and transport planes to join the search since the heavy fog and snowstorms early yes-

PA NEWC OBSERVES

If everyone took their civic duties as seriously as Mrs. Henry McCreary, of Sumner avenue, New Castle would be much better off. Mrs. McCreary, although eighty years of age, is serving on the jury this week and is making a very good job of it.

One of the heaviest fogs that has enveloped the district in some time, hung over New Castle last night, slowing up motor traffic. Driving conditions were extremely difficult.

New Castle's home decorating and lighting for the holiday season is rapidly expanding. Pa Newc last night noted additions to the especially lighted homes on Highland avenue, Laurel avenue, Fairfield avenue, and other sections of the north hill.

New Castle stores are open tonight and will remain open evenings until Christmas. No doubt large numbers of holiday shoppers will take advantage of this evening store service.

For a clear view of New Castle while it sleeps, Young Pa Newc suggests a ride along Sheep Hill on a clear evening. From the top of the hill, one can see the city and all its glittering lights. From this point, one imagines seeing one of the larger metropolitan cities.

School Board Holds Up Exoneration List For Per Capita Tax

Exoneration of per capita school taxes for 1936 was postponed by the New Castle school board Wednesday night until it can be determined whether the board will invoke certain compulsions provided by the school code. The list of this per capita uncollected taxes was presented by Treasurer C. C. McKibben and amounts to approximately $59,000.

The list this year is slightly smaller than it was last year. The total per capita tax levied is approximately $122,000, at five dollars per person. This means that about half of the taxables in New Castle are refusing to pay this school levy.

Board Indignant.

While the board has always criticized the large amount of uncollected per capita tax, it was particularly indignant on Wednesday night.

"This is a crying shame," said J. H. McIlvenny. "It is time the property owners of this city rose up and demanded that some teeth be put into the law providing for collection of this tax. As it is, there are birds

"She Laughed At Me"

James N. Nicholson

"She laughed at me." Thus explained James N. Nicholson, 29-year old Clearwater, Kas. high school coach, as to why he shot to death Mrs. Ruth Biggs Owens, 25, his former fiancee, according to police. After shooting Mrs. Owens, Nicholson turned the gun on himself and was reported near death in a Scott City, Kas., hospital. Police quoted Nicholson as saying Mrs. Owens and he had been sweethearts for years and were to be married Christmas. She then abruptly married another 10 days before he shot her.

Wife Of Desperado Confesses Kidnaping Charge, Is Taken To Trenton, N. J.

VANDENBUSH IS BEING HUNTED

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 17.—Still suffering from the bullet wound received in the New York City gun battle in which her bandit husband, Harry Brunette, was captured, Mrs. Arline Lebeau Brunette was brought here today to face federal kidnaping charges.

She was to be arraigned before United States Commissioner Marvin A. Spaulding, charged with participating with her husband and Merle Vandenbush in the abduction of State Trooper William A. Turnbull.

Mrs. Brunette signed a waiver of removal in New York City, and according to department of justice officials here, she has confessed to the kidnaping charge.

Hunt Companion

In the meantime, Brunuette, closely guarded at the Mercer county jail, was held to await "further action" by the federal authorities, who will seek formal indictments under the Lindbergh inter-state kidnaping act, which provides a life penalty. His total bail on federal charges in New Jersey and New York now totals $200,000.

G-men who captured Brunette have questioned him at length regarding his criminal activities with his pal, Vandenbush, and there were predictions today that the latter might be taken into custory within 48 hours, partly due to information which Brunette has furnished.

Gail Patrick And Restaurant Man Decide To Marry

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—Surprising friends in the film colony, Gail Patrick, popular actress, and Robert Cobb, head of a chain of restaurants, admitted today they had eloped to Tijuana and were married yesterday.

The romance of more than two years culminated when Miss Patrick returned from a personal appearance tour. Cobb persuaded her to forget the problem of unpacking her luggage long enough to speed cross the border.

Intimate friends said the couple, estranged following a quarrel, "made up" recently and planned to be married during the Christmas holidays. But Cobb was so happy upon her return to Hollywood that he pleaded for an immediate marriage.

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA

MADRID, Dec. 17.—Nazi German fought Red German and Fascist Italian traded bayonet thrusts with Italian exiles today as alien rebel volunteers met the famed Loyalist "International Brigade" in the front-line of the furious insurgent battle to throttle Madrid.

While the capital dug itself out of the horrible wreckage of a deadly raid by 39 rebel bombing airplanes —a record number for the civil war —the struggle for strategically vital Boadilla Del Monte, seven miles northwest of Madrid, raged back and forth.

Rebel sources asserted the town, capture of which would cut off the loyalist line to the Guadarrama mountains and facilitate encirclement of Madrid, had already fallen.

Discuss Madrid Surrender

As a result, Gen. Queipo DeLlano, rebel spokesman at Seville, said, Indalecio Prieto, loyalist war minister, was discussing possible surrender of Madrid with President Manucl Azana in Barcelona.

Prieto was represented as being anxious to yield the capital in order to avoid further heavy losses.

Gen. De Llano reported a serious food shortage in Madrid, Barcelona, Bilbao and Santander.

With Madrid declaring that many Germans and some Italians are fighting in the Boadilla battle, rebel headquarters announced that several positions formerly held by the

To William Botham, of 713 East Main street, goes probably the distinction of being the oldest Santa Claus in Pennsylvania; and perhaps in the United States.

Mr. Botham, 89 years of age, looks forward to the Yuletide season with keen anticipation. Because of his love for boys and girls, Botham gets as much kick out of impersonating old Saint Nick as a kid does with a new toy. The East Main street resident has enacted the role of Santa for the past seven years. This year, he grew an extremely long beard.

Unexpected Result Of Stay Of Mrs. Simpson Is Reported At Cannes

By ROBERT CHASSEUIL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANNES, France, Dec. 17—Mrs. Wallis Simpson's sojourn here, which many thought would be a small bonanza for Cannes, turned into a veritable blight today.

Mayor Pierre Nouveau, it was learned, has received several threatening letters from irate constituents because of his invitation to Mrs. Simpson to become an honorary citizen of the town and because he allegedly spent taxpayers' money to send her flowers.

On the other hand the Cannes correspondent of the Eclaireur De Nice, received congratulatory letters for an editorial which, summed up, says: "Let her go, and the sooner the better."

With Mrs. Simpson, of course, playing an altogether innocent part in the situation, hotels along the fashionable Coisette are complaining that Christmas reservations are at the lowest points in years.

British visitors in particular are boycotting the town which, up to now, thought it would profit by the publicity of Mrs. Simpson's visit.

Among those failing to make bookings were many old British customers who have been regular visitors to Cannes for years.

The unexptcted revenue from the hundreds of newspapermen and cameramen who came here, and their heavy outlays in keeping the world spotlight turned on Mrs. Simpson will hardly compensate Cannes for the loss of prestige in the eyes of wealthy and conservative steady visitors, hoteliers complained.

Mrs. Simpson, however, has no intension of leaving Villa Lou Viei, where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, until after Christmas, it is understood.

Duke Of Windsor Gets Christmas Invitation

VIENNA, Dec. 17.—Marie, queen mother of Rumania, whose own son once forsook a throne for love, planned today to brighten the Duke of Windsor's Christmas by making him the center of a gay party that may reunite the ex-king and his youngest brother.

Expressing her full admiration for the Duke of Windsor's carriage and dignity in handling the extremely difficult situation, Marie wrote him a letter, it was learned, inviting him to spend the Yule season at her daughter's castle, Sonnberg, near Vienna.

Queen Mother Marie is also inviting the Duke of Kent, Edward's brother, and the duchess; Prince Paul, head of the Yugoslavian regency council, and Princess Olga, his wife and sister of the Duchess of Kent.

Sonnberg, only 20 minutes drive from the Duke of Windsor's retreat at Castle Enzesfeld, is the home of former Princess Ileana of Rumania, who married Archduke Anton of Hapsburg.

Wisconsin U. President To Put Up Battle

Dr. Glenn Frank Says "I'll Not Resign My Position As University Head"

REGENTS BOARD TALKS OF OUSTER

(International News Service)

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 17.—Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, today girded himself for a battle with the board of regents seeking to oust him from the position he has held since 1925.

"I have no intention of presenting my resignation," Dr. Frank declared, a declaration he also made to the regents yesterday.

The nationally famous educator said he would formally answer the charges of Harold M. Wilkie, chairman of the board and leader of the regents' bloc seeking his ouster, at the next meeting of the board, to be held some time after Christmas.

Meets Situation

"I have no feeling of embarrassment in meeting squarely on a factual basis everything that Mr. Wilkie has presented or anything he may present," Dr. Frank stated. "I shall give a considered, formal reply to Mr. Wilkie and the group he represents at the next meeting.

"All I will say of these charges now is that it is a document of generalizations. It deals in types of criticisms that can be heard on the campus of any major university. It is shot through with inaccurate statements of fact."

Dr. Frank referred to the 17 page document presented to the regents in which Wilkie recited facts on which he based his conclusion that "I feel I cannot vote for the renewal of Dr. Frank's appointment for the ensuing academic year."

Stricken Vessel Sends Out S. O. S.

Reported Pounding To Pieces On Rocks Off Coast Of Lower California

(International News Service)

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 17.—The freighter John Crickett is aground on lonely Guadalupe Island, off the coast of Lower California, said an "S. O. S." received today by the coast guard station here.

Two cutters, the Aurora from San Pedro and the Calypso, from San Diego, put to sea immediately to aid the stricken vessel.

"The John Crickett is ashore on Guadalupe Island," said the message, "and is pounding to pieces. Immediate help needed."

The radio plea, signed "William Dietz, master," was telephoned by the American consul at Ensenada, who was believed by coast guardsmen to have obtained it via a fishing boat.

It was addressed to Armand Levi, Los Angeles insurance agent.

Captain Dietz gave no details of the accident or the number of men aboard his vessel.

BRINGS FIRE TO DOOR OF STATION

Central firemen had a blaze brought right to their very door on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, when the floor matting of a truck owned by the New Model Baking company started to smoulder. Instead of stopping the truck and summoning firemen, the driver drove it to the fire station.

A piece of steel near the floor of the truck had been welded and was still hot, charring the floor boards. The damage was negligible.

Any Visitors For Holidays?

In the coming holiday period, large numbers of former residents of New Castle, and visitors from other localities, will be guests in homes in this city and immediate environs.

The News will be glad to make mention of these visitors in the columns of the paper, and would be pleased to have all persons acting as hosts during the holiday season, send an item to the paper, giving names and addresses of visitors, and where they are being entertained.

Especially is it desired that names and addresses of former residents of the city who are back for the holidays, be reported.

The News will appreciate your cooperation in this matter.

Security List May Pass 15,000

List Of Employes In City Under New Social Security Is Mounting

FIRST ESTIMATES FALL FAR SHORT

Between 14,000 and 15,000 employes' social security registration accounts may be opened in the New Castle district before the present social security registration task has been completed, it grew more apparent today.

At the post office where a corps of clerks is handling the temporary registration job it was clearly evident that the number of workers in this "city district" would climb up toward the 15,000 mark and possibly higher. It was impossible to predict how high it would go.

Earlier the "rough estimate" of those in charge of the account work was 12,000.

Now 6,000 Accounts Open.

Clyde E. Stevens and William B. McIver, designated by Postmaster Richard A. Steen to supervise the social security work, reported today that more than 6,000 accounts have already been opened and that 6,000 more accounts are about to be opened.

More and more workers' forms, carrying the information requested from the employes, poured into the post office today. Officials expect the stream of applications to continue for several days because many firms have not as yet sent back their forms. Many individual workers are delivering their own cards to the post office.

From Washington, it was learned, came news urging all employes to return their application forms at once.

DUKE OF WINDSOR APPEALS

Asks Silencing Of Archbishop

Report Former King Sends Request To Brother And Successor

ROYAL FAMILY HAS INFLUENZA

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 17.—While an influenza epidemic spread thru the royal family today, the Duke of Windsor was reported to have sped a message to his brother and successor pleading with the new king to silence the Archbishop of Canterbury and other persistent critics of the ex-ruler.

Baron Brownlow, close friend of both Mrs. Wallis Simpson and former King Edward, is on his way from the king's retreat, Castle Enzesfeld, Austria, to London, according to the Daily Express.

The baron, who dashed from Mrs. Simpson's sanctuary in Cannes to Enzesfeld just after the archbishop commented on Edward's "social circles", was believed to be on a mission to England connected with the primate's broadcast.

Besides turning his back on the Church of England by planning a civil wedding, the Duke of Windsor hopes later to reply to the archbishop, but feels that he cannot now in his present position. Because of that fact, however, he is said to have asked King George to use the influence of the crown to prevent any further unanswerable criticism.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS UP EXONERATION LIST FOR PER CAPITA TAX

who own no property, pay no taxes and get away with it. The small home owner has to sacrifice to pay his taxes or see his home taken."

R. W. Hazen: "The budget committee is going into this matter deeper. It certainly is not fair to permit people to slide out of their tax obligations."

Clyde M. Whittaker: "It is possible to collect these taxes through employers. In some cities this is done."

Secretary John B. Bechtol then read the section of the school code which provides that the per capita tax can be taken out of any wages due a person working for a firm.

A. C. Hyde: "We ought to do something in this matter. If the plan suggested by Mr. Whittaker can be worked why not look into it?"

Griff Thomas: "In the past we have passed this exoneration list too lightly. We should do something this year."

After some further discussion the board moved to let the matter rest with the budget committee for the time. The list is an annual headache to the board.

Treasurer C. C. McKibben suggested that the compensation paid collectors was hardly sufficient. "The allowance is 35 cents for each one," said he. "The collectors average about $60 per month out of which they must pay their own gasoline and oil costs. If the allowance was back to 50 cents where it was I think it would be an incentive to greater effort."

This angle was referred to Walter W. Duff, who is the board's representative on the joint city-school committee that decides the financial policy of the treasurer's office.

SECOND JURY IN MOUNTAIN CASE SAYS GIRL GUILTY

box in the musty old courtroom where a year ago a similarly-composed jury found Edith guilty at the first trial, hundreds of quaintly-costumed mountaineers and their womenfolk grew silent, craning their necks to hear.

Verdict Is Bombshell

"We, the jury," read C. I. Fulton, court clerk, from the jury foreman's slip, "find the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree and fix her sentence at 20 years in the state penitentiary."

The verdict burst like a bombshell on the deep silence of the room.

Edith emitted one piercing moan, and fell, sobbing wildly, into the arms of her aunt, Mrs. A. T. Dotson, who attempted to comfort the stricken girl.

A crescendoing "boo" gained momentum among the spectators and a sprinkling of half-hearted applause was scarcely audible.

Out of Judge Ezra Carter's pounding with his gavel eventually came a semblance of order. Then defense counsel, stunned by the verdict, announced it will appeal the verdict and move to have Edith released on bail pending outcome of the appeal.

Jury foreman Louis Estes said his group was convinced of Edith's guilt from the outset and the only question was of the sentence. One juror, he said, held out for 15 years and another for 18 years, but both finally agreed to the 20-year term.

Earl Maxwell, Edith's brother, who led the fight for his sister's freedom, wept openly. He said:

"Well, they have two rounds in this fight, but we aren't through. Edith is innocent, and we are going to carry on the fight to free her.

The judge accepted the property of four bondsmen as sufficient bond collateral. Edith was released, and departed immediately for the farm of a relative near Richmond, where she has been staying lately.

While leaving the courtroom, she protested her innocence volubly and repeatedly, declaring she could not fathom how "they could have reached such a verdict."

Listener: "What do you do for a living?"

Lecturer (modestly): "Why, I'm a lion hunter."

Listener: "Spell it, please."

Mayor Reports On Conference

McGrath Tells Councilmen Of Crime Prevention Plans In State

Mayor Charles E. McGrath during council meeting today at the city hall gave a report to colleagues as to some of the high lights of the conference on crime which he attended at Harrisburg. His remarks were interesting.

He brought out that an attempt will be made to have the criminal laws recodified during the coming session of the legislature.

An effort also will be made to make it compulsory for all police to undergo training after they have been named police in any city in the state.

The mayor said he urged in open forum that when an investigation is made by the legislature of the present retail liquor set-up that the investigation be thorough.

He said director of personnel Lesser of the bureau of identification, department of justice, made one of the most interesting talks on law enforcement he has ever heard.

It was brought out by Lesser, the mayor added, that there are at present 135,000 uncaught murderers in the United States.

Concerning the parole, he said Attorney General Margiotti said that of 433 pardons in the last two years only 10 paroled persons went wrong again.

Expectations of finding the ill-fated ship anything but twisted wreckage, its occupants dead or maimed, dwindled as hours passed without any tangible clue to its exact location and with no word reaching mountain settlements which might have been near the supposed crash.

Hopes Fade.

Hopes faded that Pilot S. J. Samson may have successfully maneuvered his craft to a safe landing in some isolated spot in the rugged terrain and his passengers secured refuge in a deserted prospector's cabin.

"You may say it is the general opinion of officials concerned that the plane occupants have perished," said A. E. Cahlan, Las Vegas, Nev., spokesman for Western Air Express.

"If they have not died from the crash they have died from exposure," declared Jimmy James, veteran pilot, plainly irritated at the delay and broken-hearted over the probable loss of his flying buddy, Pilot Samson. James will lead the aerial search for the missing airliner soon after dayberak if weather permits.

BIGGEST RAID IS MADE ON MADRID BY REBEL PLANES

international brigade in that sector had been taken.

Anti-Fascist Italians, Germans, Frenchmen and Poles, with a sprinkling of other nationalities, form the noted brigade.

In falling back from Boadilla, said the rebels, the leftist forces left 82 dead on the battlefield, and the insurrectos captured three tanks.

Fierce Counter-Attack

In the fierce counter-attack, loyalists, including one wing of the international brigade, struck straight at the heart of the rebel line to Boadilla, thrusting a column across the Manzanares river and driving through the Casa De Campo sector.

While the battle there is still going on, loyalist sources said the rebels lost ground.

Firemen and other squads of rescuers worked all night to extricate the nearly 100 dead and more than 200 wounded in the big air raid.

Fifty laborers' houses were destroyed in the Cuatro Caminos section of Madrid in a raid aimed to help the rebel drive around the northwest.

Fifteen loyalist airplanes engaged in long dog-fight with the 39 invaders before they flew off in the direction of Salamanca.

Thousands Flee

Madrid, Dec. 17.—Terrified by a huge air raid in which scores of bombs screamed into the heart of the "four roads" slub district, seven thousand refugees, mainly women and children, today fled this stricken city for Valencia.

Coincident with opening of a new violent rebel offensive on Boadilla Del Monte, key to the Escorial highway, Premier Francisco Largo Caballero accepted the Anglo-French plan to curb foreign intervention in Spain.

CHINESE PLANES SHOW STRENGTH

hostile Communist army raced eastward towards Sianfu for a world-shaking collision.

One Hostage Released

Chiang Timg-Wen, pacification commissioner for Fukien province, scene of long Communist fighting, who had been held as hostage in Sianfu with Generalissimo Chiang, telegraphed the government that he has been released, and is now flying to Nanking with a perosnal letter from Chiang.

The missive is believed to contain the premier's instructions that the punitive expedition headed by General Ho Ying-Chin, the war minister, be delayed and, possibly that Marshal Chang be given a chance to escape.

T. V. Soong, finance minister and money genius of China, is expected to pledge a huge ransom to insure Chiang's release.

See Bomb Threats

He is working on behalf of Mme. Chiang, his sister, who also hoped to avert the civil war, fearing it would mean sacrifice of her husband's life.

Dropping only pamphlets, government airplanes are staging frequent demonstration raids over Sianfu, showing Marshal Chang what could happen. At one time 200 bombers droned over the city in impressive formation.

Minor fighting in Shensi province has disrupted train service there, and only troop trains are today going in that direction.

W. H. Donald, Chiang's advisor, is understood to have gone back to Sianfu today, in spite of Nanking's order that he report in the capital. Donald will advise Soong whether a trip to Sianfu by the finance minister might accomplish Chiang's release.

NURSES ALUMNAE YULE PARTY TONIGHT

Thermometers, diets and nurses' routines will be completely discarded by a group of young women this evening when members of the New Castle Hospital Nurses Alumnae gather at the Elks club for an informal Yuletide dinner party at 7:30 o'clock.

The affair will be in the form of a reunion, providing an opportunity for the renewing of old friendships and the making of new friendships among the members of the many classes to be represented at this function. It is the first of its kind ever undertaken by the alumnae and an exceptionally large attendance is indicated.

An exchange of Christmas gifts will be followed by contests in bridge with attractive prizes to be awarded the winners.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Sylvia Greer, Mrs. Claire Groucutt, Esther Reynolds and Blanche Guinagh.

CIRCULATING BOOK AT GREER RESIDENCE

Besides helping Santa Claus select Christmas gifts, which is now the national pastime and national problem, many women, including members of the Circulating Book club are still taking time off this week for an afternoon of recreation.

Yesterday, this particular group was entertained in the North Jefferson street home of Mrs. Charles Greer, and after a tasty dessert had been served at 2 o'clock, the hours were devoted to last-minute stitches on bits of needlework and knitting. There was the usual book exchange.

The evening was spent informally, and at a late hour the party was ushered into the dining room where a long table was laid with crystal and silver. The centerpiece was a large bowl of baby mums, flanked with tall red candles. Aides to the hostess in serving a dainty collation was another sister, Mrs. Sarah Zimmerman.

When the guests departed, it was with a feeling of renewed acquaintance and friendship with the honored guest, who will be remembered as the former Edna Zimmerman.

Mrs. Ben S. Agnew led the group in singing Christmas carols, with Mrs. F. F. Urey at the piano. R. McCulloch, and Mrs. W. H. Hanger.

Of still further interest were colored slides of evergreen, birds and bird sanctuaries and methods of bird feeding in winter. These, in charge of Mrs. McCulloch, were from the state museum in Harrisburg, and were the same slides as were shown at the Garden Forum meeting this week.

Teatime was inviting, the guests being served from a beautifully decorated table in the dining room. A white pottery bowl with red carnations and evergreens formed an effective holiday centerpiece with tall tapers on either side.

The next meeting of the Conservation department will take place on January 20, in the home of Mrs. W. J. Offutt on Edison avenue.

RAINBOW GIRLS YULE PARTY AT CATHEDRAL

New Castle Assembly No. 1, Order of Rainbow Girls, enjoyed one of the most delightful Yuletide celebrations they have ever held, Wednesday evening in the East Lodge room of the Scottish Rite Cathedral following their regular business meeting.

Activities began with much hilarity when the fifty-six girls in attendance marched past a huge Christmas tree brilliantly decorated, where they were directed to pull one of the strings hung from the branches. In doing so each received a gift, marking their annual exchange.

A program ensued, with Dorothy Steward favoring the group with a xylophone and tap solo; Natalie Ehrlich and Jeanne Louise Wright pleased with piano solos; Mary Eileen Ray and Geraldine Flick gave tap dance solos and Caroline Hetrick concluded the entertainment with a reading.

The serving of refreshments completed a joyous occasion that was voted most successful, this taking place in the anti-room at tables attractively decorated in seasonal suggestions.

New Castle Section, National Council of Jewish Women met Wednesday evening, in Temple Israel, for the regular session and to hear a speaker, Dr. Hyman Frank.

In describing "Palestine Today" he told of progress in fields of commerce, transportation, industry, chemistry, farming, fishing, health, and sanitation. "So vast have been the changes brought about by modern methods" said the speaker, "that one is struck by the contrast of the land of the Bible and the busy modern cities." Of the future he said, "we will do and we will hear."

During the business session, there was reported a visit to Polk Institute where a service was held for the patients and a Hanukah treat provided.

Mrs. Norman Ehrlich announced the first meeting of an educational forum in January which will be led by Rabbis Diamond and Katz. The book "The Chuetas of Majorca" by Doctor Baruch Braunstein, was placed in Council Corner in the Public Library through the educational committee, Mrs. Mont Blau, chairman.

FUTURE OF THE CCC

ON THE question of continuing the Civilian Conservation Corps which will shortly come before congress, Director Fechner naturally takes the affirmative. His recommendation for removal of the CCC from the class of emergency agencies and his further remark that there is a broad field of operation for a permanent organization are somewhat qualified by his statement that the corps should be continued at least as long as there are young men eager to work, but idle through no fault of their own.

From the peak of 505,000 a year ago last August the enrollment has been reduced to 350,000. The cost for this fiscal year will be $492,000,000. Of this sum the recruits received $154,000,000 and sent $123,000,000 to their dependent relatives. It is, perhaps, fair to deduct the latter item from the expense of maintaining the camps, since most of it would probably have been paid to these dependents from the government's direct relief funds. The recruits, also, in the absence of the CCC camps, would doubtless have added to the burden of the WPA rolls.

This is a case in which practical and not sentimental considerations should rule. The CCC has been immensely popular, especially in the darkest days of the depression. Mr. Fechner terms the heavy expenditure "an investment in manhood." Hundreds of thousands of youths who were eating the bread of idleness were given healthful outdoor occupation amid new surroundings calculated to improve their morale and make them good citizens.

The main criticisms of the CCC have been based on the disproportionate cost of this emergency measure, as it was regarded by all at the time of its institution, and the placing of these youths in the class of government dependents, says the Philadephia Inquirer in discussing the matter. On the other hand, Mr. Fechner reports that about 12,000 per month have been leaving the camps to take private employment and that in many instances the positions would not have been open to them except for their training and service in the CCC.

Immediate disbandment of the camps would not be practicable. But, as recovery proceeds, private jobs should be available for steadily increasing numbers of these young men. Herein may prove the solution of the problem of the future of the CCC.

A DEBT FEELER?

The excitement over the reports that France was sending out unofficial feelers relative to offering to pay something more on her debts, and that other nations might follow, seems to have subsided, admitting there was any excitement.

Other hints have crossed the Atlantic that nothing more will be done about it by France in the near future, and that England is not at this time contemplating any change in its do-nothing debt policy.

Perhaps the lack of enthusiasm engendered on this side of the Atlantic may have discouraged further feelers from abroad. Of course Uncle Sam wants the allied nations to pay, and judging from the tremendous sums being spent by the defaulting nations preparing for the next war, it would seem that something could be paid without financially paralyzing the debtor countries.

But the prospect of getting a little on account has not excited the American politicians, statesmen and business men to the point where they are saying: "Fine: pay us a part of what you owe and we will lend you twice as much for the next war." Perhaps that is why we did not get any quick action from abroad.

Renewal of debt discussion brought the warning from American statesmen that while they welcomed the prospect of more payments, this re-establishment of contact between the debtor and creditor nation would not result in the loosening of American purse-string to finance further military ventures in Europe. Statements of the kind were made by men of all shades of political opinion.

Again the opinion was expressed that we had already trimmed the size of the debts down to the point where they only represented a fraction of the original and that in view of the ability of the debtor nations to raise money to buy war material, there seemed to be no necessity for further reduction. For example: Senator Borah, powerful member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was "utterly opposed" to any downward revision of the French war debt when asked directly as to his opinion of the move for a new settlement by France.

Borah remarked caustically, "We settled with France once at 49 cents on the dollar and they signed an agreement with us to that effect."

He indicated belief that in view of French repudiation of the previous settlement there was no reason to believe that a new settlement would stand up any better.

Americans would, of course, regard a resumption of debt payments as a friendly gesture and one to be much desired in the way of creating international confidence. But they will want it understood that such resumption of payment will not open the gates to more war loans or to political understanding between the United States and any nation or set of nations in Europe.

We have heard a great deal of late about the necessity for perfecting mutual understanding and agreement between nations. Well, if international agreements are to be made to mean anything, why not start in with the debt agreements?

We gather from the headlines that Europe is on the brink, which is just about where she has been as far back as the oldest inhabitant can recall.

2 Stabs, Heart And Back.
Duke Edward Answers.
Harder To Keep Than Get.
Shoes $300 A Pair.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY'S attack on Edward, formerly king of England, has rendered no service to the Church of England.

The few churches that still enjoy government recognition and support should be cautious. One English writer, referring to the archbishop's statement that the former king had given him, the archbishop, "a stab through his own heart," remarks that it did not take the archbishop long, "before following with another stab in the back."

THE BISHOP OF DURHAM, associate dignitary of the Archbishop of Canterbury, dazzled by the bright light that radio gives to a few, says he thought the Church of England "was an Episcopal church, governed by the bishops reigning in several dioceses. Now, I find it is coming to be some kind of a novel body governed by the British Broadcasting corporation and two archbishops". That sounds like schism, and look out for that.

DUKE EDWARD, safe in Rothschild's Austrian castle, is said to have remarked in reply to the archbishop that loveless marriages, such as royalty contracts, are "immoral, unnatural, comparable to the breeding of pedigreed animals, disastrous to dynasties that insist on them."

To this statement, its authenticity is not guaranteed, the duke might have added that breeders of pedigreed animals at least pick out good pedigrees, avoiding hereditary taints.

IT IS HARDER to get rich than it was, harder to keep the money. In 1935, 41 Americans had incomes above $1,000,000; $1,800,000 was the exact average of the 41, and their average income tax was $1,010,000. It may comfort the down-trodden to know that the 41 were working largely for them. It would hardly do to take ALL they got because the smart ones might stop working, and

High up there above the street I see a little man painting a big picture on a space at least a hundred feet long. He cannot see all that he is doing. He cannot step back from it to plan and correct his brush work . . . All he can do is paint a little space at a time, working from a plan that was made before he ever ascended to that height and began his work.

Day after day I watch him, seeing him add square foot to square foot of his picture until at last his job is done and he takes away his boards, his ladders, his paint pots and brushes and goes off to another job . . Then I stop craning my neck. He, working, interested me. What he has done matters very little to me.

But whenever I see those little men working so close to big pictures, I think of how many human beings live so close to their jobs that they do not know what they are doing. They do not know the picture they are painting.

Day after day, they do their jobs, follow their impulses, carry out their little designs, obey orders from within and from without, suffer little defeats, win little victories, do not know what they are doing.

They are painting pictures that other men, far off, can see, but they are too close to know what each brush stroke is accomplishing on the canvas of their lives.

There are men living mean lives who would not live so meagerly if they could get away from themselves and see what they are doing . . . There are men living lives of quiet heroism who are not even dimly aware of it (and would be no better off if they were) . . . We are all painting pictures, but few of us know what we paint.

CHICAGO—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel physicist prize winner, considers the social values of science and government: "Social changes that have resulted from the application of science have been more profound than those resulting from changes in methods of government."

NEW YORK—Mayor F. H. Laguardia opposed a proposed $350,000 appropriation to renovate the stone work of the New York city hall: "It is so beautiful that it does not need mascara or lipstick."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:36. Sun rises tomorrow 7:17.

And by the way the one person in England who really deserves sympathy is the mother of the new and old king. She has been a wonderful mother and has said very little, but has no doubt been doing a lot of painful thinking.

The reason there are so many sardines in a can is because everybody is too polite to take the last one.

The man who has always worked hard since he was a young boy and has won merit by his own energy, dislikes to be regulated by any government rule. The writer of this column was a member of a union for many years and never got less than five or ten dollars a week more than the union said he should get. There are lots of men today who are getting more money than the union scales provide for and they get it because they are worth it. It will be a sad day in this country when individual effort don't count and when men will wait for unemployment insurance or old age pensions.

An English confectioner offers caramels in a non-rustling wrapper. We are surprised that science bends no effort toward silent peanut brittle.

On some trains the service is so homey and soothing that you keep expecting the hostess to kiss you good night.

Probably it was the restaurant coffee that popularized the demi tasse.

The deer kill this year was smaller than usual. Some of the bucks dropped their horns and looked like doe and fooled the hunters. The number of hunters killed was also less. The lives lost every year in hunting are worth more than the game shot.

Of course you can't believe all you hear—but one thing sure—you can repeat it.

There are people who are trying to start an anti-kissing campaign with small babies. That's all right, but we don't want any neb to start on one kissing the big babies.

Despite the depression a lot of people are just as busy as ever—busy looking after other people's business.

The pictures of Santa Claus will not be permitted in the advertisement of liquor during 1937. This idea of Old Santy crooking the elbow and taking a swig is too suggestive.

A woman can knit a charming tall suit for $12, if you count her labor worth seventeen cents a week.

Invariably after a man dies, no matter how obscure a place he occupied in the community, he is always well known and highly respected by a large number of persons. Often the more obscure he is the more he is respected.

A 19-pound boy baby was born to an Ohio couple last week. That kid will be able to help with the farm work in the spring if he don't have any setback.

If you would listen to all these theories about how the shape of one's head, nose, mouth or ears determines character and even success in life, it wouldn't be long before you would be hunting up a well-fortified room in a nut house.

We have been mildly curious about these theories, and, while we haven't studied any of them thoroughly, we have looked into them sufficiently to get a good laugh—and let it go at that.

The reason we mention all this is because we just have come across another theory: how the shape of one's hands reveals the same things that advocates of the other theories maintain they will do. Of course, palm reading is old stuff, but this, we think, is different. The theory is that the shape of the hand, not the lines thereon, is the revealing factor.

Small-handed people, this theory supposes, are generally quick and impulsive. They ordinarily dislike detail and either are big successes of big flops.

On the other hand (pardon the pun!), large-handed people are usually much more patient and careful over detail. They rarely act rashly, but are cautious and thoughtful.

And there you have the substance of the theory. Of course, you can take a look at your own hands and determine from that glance your character and future, if you want to. Our suggestion is to keep in mind that the type of work you have done and how much exercise you have given your hands might have something to do with their size.

The wise family doctor tells his patient "No tobacco, no alcohol, plain food, no theatres," hoping the prescription will secure quicker payment of the bill.

And by the way there are two scandalous things constructed in many places this time of the year. One is pumpkin pie and the other is fruit cake. It's too bad some of the fruit cake cannot be used to repair sidewalks, which is so badly needed in some places in this city.

WHY EDITORS LOSE HAIR

Greetings, my friends! This is Ben Goolash again with another tidbit of news . . .

Editors in a well-known pulp magazine were in tantrums for two weeks! Picture them in their easy chairs and yanking the delicate growth which beshrubs their scalps after they found to their dismay the mistake they and the author made in the yarn printed in their magazine.

In the first chapter of that story the hero had one arm! As the story carried on its delicious thrills, the hero became a bit chilled by the wintry blast and put on his gloves! Further on the hero had an encounter with the villian and threw him into the corner of the room WITH BOTH HANDS. In the last chapter of that story, the hero was triumphant. He was the one-armed hero again!

Wonder what the author thought after he gently perused his fan mail from readers to the magazine? Heh, heh.

DEAR Miss Markel—I am shortly to attend a supper dance. Please advise me as to taking a girl to the dining room. How should I proceed to ask her, etc.? HICK.

Answer—While you are dancing with a girl whom you would like to be your supper partner, say to her: "May I take you in to supper?" or "Will you go in to supper with me?" Never ask her if she has a supper "date" or a supper partner. If she has not, such a question would immediately place her at a disadvantage.

And choose your supper partner early. If you wait until the last minute, you may find that all of the girls have been asked and have accepted.

The World At A Glance

King's Plight Discussed.
Reason Will Prevail Soon.
King Put Emotions First.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

Comments continue to pour in on this writer concerning the David Windsor-Wally Simpson friendship.

"When the emotionalists have worn themselves out over this story, then some keen analyists will consider it in the light of reason," one person remarks.

"One would believe that a bewildered young Romeo and a poor young Juliet had taken poison together over a frustrated love affair.

"But here was a man going on 44, who had seen about all there was to see in life, who had endless sums of money to spend, and who could and did choose from among thousands of women. And here was a woman of 42, twice married, undoubtedly charming but who was not suffering her first love pangs by any means.

"Suddenly he demands her immediately over everything else in the world—even over the possible disruption of his country.

"Now, was the passion so intense that the king could not abide in dignified calm for five more months until the lady's divorce decree permitted her to wed? Could he not have surveyed the scene during those months, made sure of his present passion, made sure it was no different from others preceding it?

"Instead, like a spoiled child, he demanded everything immediately—and played into the hands of Tory politicians, who considered him as a liability to the land-owning aristocracy and industrial barons who rule Britain and grease the Conservative political machine.

"With the clever, suave, polite cunning that often has marked British diplomacy, they eased their own sovereign off the throne before he had caught his breath. And, in his stead, they put a 'sound' and 'safe' brother.

"Truly enough, King Edward did act as if he were a mere 17-year-old. One wonders that he could have carried on.

"In his farewell address, he put his own emotion as first and foremost, as if to the hundreds of millions of people throughout the world it stood before equity and peace and human rights. It was the speech of a man who never has felt the cruel battle for existence, the necessity each day to struggle for food and shelter."

YET MORE

Another person asserts:

"David Windsor, in his farewell talk, cried out that he had been denied the blessings of a home with a wife at his side.

"Tut, tut! For 20 years, he has had opportunities innumerable. He could even have had an 18-or-19-year-old heir to the throne by this time.

"And what about other people's homes? Should he take someone out of somebody else's home?"

SET GOOD EXAMPLE?

Yet more:

"I'm sick of the sob-stuff I hear over the radio and in dispatches from England over the abdication of King Edward VIII. One would think that the United States were a dominion of Great Britain.

"Why have a king? Let Britain save money.

"Edward probably was disgusted with the job. I honor him for that. He is not the one to be pitied. The people who set up the idol are the ones to be pitied.

"And what is the matter with the dominions? Why don't they have as much spunk as the Irish Free State? Why don't they say to England, 'If you desire to go on with silly old custom, go ahead, but we are vigorous young countries and we need no king.'"

TOO MANY LORDS?

A former Englishman remarks:

"If the common people of England knew how much their lords and ladies, dukes and duchesses, and royalty were costing them, then there would be a real upheaval. It is an astounding sum."

AND YET—

How many nations have a greater democracy than Great Britain?

The house of common rules supreme. No court, no house of lords, no king may say it nay.

What a land of paradox!

WHAT I WANT

I don't want a pipe and I dont want a watch
I don't want cigars or a bottle of Scotch
I don't want a thing that your money can buy.
I don't want a shirt or a four-in-hand tie.
If you really would make this old heart of mine glad,
I just want to know you're still fond of dad.

You women folks say, and believe it I can,
"It's so terribly hard to buy things for a man!"
And from all that I've heard I am sure it must be.
Well, I don't want you spending your money on me.
The joy that I crave in a store can't be had.
I just want to know you're still fond of your dad.

Get on with your shopping; give others the stuff!
For me just a hug and a kiss are enough!
Just come in at Christmas with love in your eye
And tell me you think I'm a pretty swell guy.
With that for my gift I can never be sad.
I just want to know you're still fond of your dad.

Dec. 17, 1778—Humphrey Davy was born in Penzance, England, son of a wood-carver. I see that Dr. Tugwell has resigned his position with the Roosevelt Administration. It is not exactly clear what he intends to do. Some reports say that he is going back to his Professorship at Columbia University and some say that he is going into business. His future work has become an interesting subject to the people of America. We can imagine him entering business and making money and tearing his hair because so much of it is taken by the Government to support some of the alphabetical commissions for which he was responsible. If he goes back to Columbia University to instruct the young men and women of America, it will be interesting to see how far he goes in the support of the political philosophy of Karl Marx. Bettie Uber And Betty Hasely Have Important Roles In Friday Play

Betty Hasely Bettie Uber

Two of the lively young maidens enrolled in "The Charm School" from which the senior class play takes its title, are Muriel Doughty and Sally Boyd. Bettie Uber and Betty Hasely devote themselves to showing how much impish pranks can be played by girls of the boarding-school age, their only limitations being the dramatic technicality that they must not at any time intrude upon the main action. The two Betties manage to create a background that is anything but still life. Their activities are potent factors in the situation that makes the position of the principal of "The Charm School" anything but a bed of roses.

Betty Maurine Hasely inclined toward athletics during her years in high school. She plays basketball and volley ball. She is a member of the Etiquette club and the Girl Reserves. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hasely of Lutton street.

"Pinky" Uber has helped run the school as hall monitor, has been a member of the Girl Reserves and the Leader's club, and recently of the cast of the school play, "Seven Chances." She is the daughter of Mr. C. L. Uber of Lathrop street.

then who would support the government and provide money for the dole?

PIERRE YANTORNY is dead; an Italian bootmaker, he had in Paris the most expensive boot shop in the world. His lowest price for any pair of shoes was $300, and he would take no order for less than five pairs at a time. If a woman with pretty feet came, unable to pay the price, he might make her shoes for nothing; he was an Italian, Calabrese, in Paris.

Yantorny went to school for six months in his ninth year, no other education, worked two years in an Italian macaroni factory from 6 in the morning to 6 at night for four cents a day, then learned the shoemaker's trade and really learned it.

AN UNFORTUNATE young woman was found dead in a New Jersey wood; reporters thought it "real news", something that never happened before; it was believed the victim had been murdered in an airplane and tossed overboard. Footprints dispelled that theory and the "tossed-from-an-airplane" murder is still to come.

YOUNG PEOPLE that practice writing might map out something headed "hurled into the hereafter—or from Clouds to Clods", and Hollywood might think it over. What a stirring scene; the beautiful heroine who has studied jiu-jitsu hurls the would-be airplane murderer-villain overboard, and brings the plane down safely, on her own "lot", although she had never flown before in her life.

CHANCELLOR HITLER orders Nazis to cease attacks on Christianity; they annoy German peasants, and Hitler depends on the peasants for food to carry out his program and feed his army.

The hard working German peasant, often wearing leather garments, inherited from his grandfather, looks up at the sky to rest for a moment, then back to the ground to resume his hard work, and that is his life. He will not thank anybody for telling him-"no use looking at the sky; there is nothing up there for you."

WHEAT RISES to the highest price in seven years, $1.35; knowledge that Germany needs a million tons of foreign grain helped, all cereals went up. Let us hope no experts in Washington will suggest cutting down the United States' wheat crop by government edict. Such things as short crops have been known.

FORTUNATELY, the corn crop has been good. This writer, also a farmer, his writing paying for his farming, raised excellent corn in Monmouth county, N. J., much of it averaging 80 grains to the ear. The west doubtless does better, but that is good for the effete east. What was your best ear, how long, how many grains?

CHINA'S GENERALISSIMO, Chiang-Kai-Shek, and several other generals, have been shot because the generalissimo would not declare war against Japan. Marshal Chang-Hsueh-Liang told calmly on the radio how he ordered the executions.

(Editor's Note—Early Wednesday morning news dispatches stated that Gen. Chiang was still alive.)

Presumably, he will fight Japan, in which case Japan will have a virtuous reason for taking more Chinese territory.

A STRIKE of French peasants, cutting off the vegetable supply of Paris, makes you wonder what would happen if a nation-wide farm strike should occur. That really would put up the price of wheat and other foods.

resignation of Dr. Frankfurter, Secretary of Labor Perkins to say nothing of Hopkins and Wallace? Are all the Communistic advisers of the Administration going to quit now? Is the Administration going to become conservative?

There is the N. R. A. Is that dead or is it to be revived in some other form? Now, the N. R. A. was a curious measure. The Anti-trust laws of the Nation are drastic, but as far as the organizations of labor are concerned, the law makers have never made such organizations amendable to Trust regulations. It is not hard to consider Labor Unions as organizations in restraint of trade and while it has never been mentioned, it seems to me that the N. R. A. attempted to even Capital with Labor. The provisions of that document so unanimously condemned by the Supreme Court of the United States practically said to Capital,—"Organize let us limit your produce and fix the price of it," and said to Labor—"Go ahead and organize and we will assist you in fixing the price for your work. We will see that you get what you want and we will see that Capital gets what it wants." Whether or not the drafters of the Bill had any such idea in mind or not, it seemed to stick out all over the measure, The supreme Court, naturally, could not permit combinations in restraint of trade on the part of Capital, but the Supreme Court has never determined whether or not Labor Unions are combinations in restraint of trade.

The coming four years are going to mean a great deal to both Capital and Labor and it is about high time that all of the differences existing now between those two great organizations be ironed out and settled.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—Carnegie Institute today added an original Rembrandt, "Ecce Homo," to its collection of drawings, Assistant Director John O'Connor, disclosed. It was presented by Kenneth Seaver, of Oakmont. Experts said the drawing was completed about 1645.

Correct this sentence: "He had a diploma from a school of journalism," said the city editor, "so I hired him."

After 2 Generations, Only the Method of Using VapoRub has been Improved

For best results, use the 3-Minute VapoRub Massage. Rub VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest, and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then—to lengthen and strengthen its action—spread it thick over the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages.

This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—eases coughing—helps to open the air-ways and break up congestion.

While the little patient relaxes into comfortable sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Gasoline Blast Is Fatal To Man At Columbus, O.

Four Are Injured, Investigation Is Started By Oil And Fire Officials

BUILDINGS IN AREA SHAKEN

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 17—With one dead and four injured, fire department and oil company officials today investigated a terrific gasoline blast that shook the entire south side here last night, causing thousands of dollars damage.

The body of Hubert Catchpole, 27, charred by burning gasoline and oil, was found by firemen after a two-hour fight to bring under control the fire which followed the explosion.

Injured were: Lewis Hoover, 18, George Kronk, 21; Charles Heill, 39 and Arthur Goldberg.

Cause of the blast, which blew glass and hot bits of metal several blacks was unknown. Plaster was cracked in buildings in the vicinity and several persons were thrown to the ground by the force of the explosion.

THIEL TO BUILD NEW GIRLS' DORM

Greenville Campus Will Be Enhanced; Start Work On Plans

(Special To The News)

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17—Thiel college's board of trustees today had authorized Charles Z. Klauder Philadelphia architect, to begin preparing drawings for a woman's new dormitory which will contain a main unit housing 64 girls and two side wings to serve future expansion purposes.

The nucleus of the dormitory fund, it was learned is provided by the returns from the S. C. Livingston estate which was received by the college last year. Plans for raising the additional money will be announced later.

The new building will go up on the north front campus and will be seen plainly from both College and Packard avenues.

Christmas Seals In Bigger Demand By Residents Here

The annual sale of Chirstmas seals this year in Lawrence county was running "somewhat higher" than the 1935 season, it was reported today by Miss Della A. Glenn of the Lawrence County Anti-Tuberculosis society, the society which sponsors the seal sale here. Figures have not been prepared.

"The money is coming in better this week, and we don't have many returns of seals," Miss Glenn said. The seals were placed in the mails right after Thanksgiving.

Miss Glenn reported that contributions are being made direct to the society office on South Merrer street.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

News World Can Resume Course

Romance Of King And Mrs. Simpson Was Exceptional News Story

OTHER EVENTS CROWDED OUT

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—There are times in the affairs of men when, for a space of days or weeks or months or even longer, there practically is NO NEWS except of just one kind.

The interval during which all human attention was riveted upon the King Edward-Mrs. Simpson affair was such a period.

Indefinitely on into the future, as news normalizes itself, the public is sure to run daily into third or fourth chapters of news stories in the press, with the earlier chapters of which no one is at all familiar, simply because they never appeared (or scarcely so), having been drowned out while l'affaire Simpson monopolized print and the radio.

OTHER STORIES VANISH

For example, floods in the Philippines, the other day, were reported to have cost thousands of lives. The newspapers accorded this catastrophe three or four paragraphs on inside pages. Ordinarily it would have had a column on page 1.

Senator Wheeler's investigation of the American railroad structure developed details of the upbuilding of the Van Sweringens' three-billion-dollar transportation empire from a mere handful of small change. For what it was worth, it should have been accorded a page of space in any daily. It got a scant column—and wasn't read, at that.

The struggle in Spain shriveled into near-nothingness.

THAT PEACE CONFERENCE

President Roosevelt's reception in Buenos Aires goes fairly good publicity, but that was because it antedated the real beginning of the King Edward-Mrs. Simpson news.

The Rooseveltian return is little noticed.

There is a mean row, too, at the Pan-American conference, which the president left behind him. We, and some of the American southern republics, want a new world union, absolutely separate from the old world powers. But Argentina, culturally nearer to Europe than it is to us, and the most influential of the southern group, wants a hook-up with the League of Nations.

It is a split of capital importance, endangering the success of the whole conference.

But who has cared!—in comparison with l'affaire Simpson!

CONGRESS? FORGET IT!

Congress is to meet soon in Washington.

It has questions of government left-ism versus right-ism to decide. It has a bitter quarrel over the house leadership to settle between Democrats. Reorganization of federal departments and liquidation of emergency setups are ahead.

But these controversies cannot get a hearing in the newspapers or by radio.

The whole issue has been—former King Edward and Mrs. Simpson.

IT WAS IMPORTANT

The beauty of it is:

The thing has been no less genuinely important than it has been "played".

Its outcome has meant more difference to civilization than a flood in the Philippines.

Senator Wheeler's investigation hasn't affected the stock market as much as it has been affected by uncertainty as to whether Edward would or would not abdicate.

It was a question upon which the probabilities or improbabilities of international wars actually did swing.

It even concerned American policies, idiotic as the idea may seem.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

As Herbert Corey, international writer, remarked to me:

"If Providence had a sense of humor, it would have raised heck by furnishing a potential Anglo-American heir to the British thone."

But that now is impossible—King Edward now merely is the Duke of Windsor.

FORMER HARRISVILLE TEACHER ACQUITTED

INDIANA, Pa., Dec. 17—Joseph K. Work, 24, former teacher in the Harrisville high school, today stood acquitted on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Work was freed by an Indiana county jury yesterday evening in a verdict before Judge E. E. Creps after four hours deliberation. He was ordered to pay the costs.

Rosa Ponselle Now Mrs. Jackson

MR. AND MRS. CARLE A. JACKSON

Rosa Ponselle, opera singer, and her husband, Carle A. Jackson, son of the mayor of Baltimore, are shown in New York following a surprise wedding ceremony held at the bride's apartment.

On Court House Hill

Jury Commissioners George J. Forrest and B. Frank Thorn, with Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard, drew a jury yesterday for a term of common pleas court to be held during the week beginning January 20. Another jury has already been drawn for the week of January 13.

Beginning on December 28, county commissioners will begin holding court of appeals for the city of New Castle. The First ward will be taken up on that date. The county appeals have all been heard with the exception of Ellwood City, Shenango and Wayne townships. Assessors have not completed their work in Ellwood and deaths occasioned delay in the two townships.

New automobile license plates were placed upon county cars today. The county has three cars, two for the use of the sheriff and one for the use of the county commissioners. Employes in the welfare department use their own cars.

Glaring headlights on automobiles are blamed for several accidents which have resulted in trials in court recently. Some of the headlights on cars make it impossible for those approaching to see anything. About all the driver can do when approaching a car equipped with such headlights is to stop or run his car by guess until he gets past. Glaring headlights make it very dangerous for persons walking on the highway. When the driver is blinded he cannot see a person walking toward him, and although such a person may have a perfect right to walk on the concrete, he is wise to step off when he sees that two cars are about to pass.

Some idea of the work of the state highway patrol can be had from the testimony of a witness in a drunken driving case on trial before Judge W. Walter Braham. He testified that 225 cases have been investigated in Lawrence county since January 1. The department keeps a complete record of all cases which the patrolmen have been called to investigate. The cases are indexed in several ways. One index shows the date of the accident and where it happened, while another is indexed with the names of the owners of the cars involved. The highway patrolmen are on duty all the time, and render very valuable services to the traveling public.

County employes always have something to look forward to. Just now it is the Christmas vacation. As Christmas comes on Friday, it may be possible that the vacation may be extended until the following Monday, but no action along that line has yet been taken by the county commissioners. In some counties of the state the county commissioners have already announced that two holidays will be given. Similar announcements have also been made by the state department.

Additional oil and gas leases taken by Harold C. Phillips in Pulaski township for the Carnegie Natural Gas Company, have been entered at the register and recorder's office. Those who have leased their lands are as follows: Rocco Zappia, Moses Nicalon, William B. Sheehy, Arthur Wright, William Bohack, John Gordon, Joseph R. Durbin, Helen Galonka, Andy Kushner, John Zarlingo, Mike Cebula, William Sheehy, George Lapin, Steve Latlar, Ellis McFarlane, Elenora K. Shuler, Earl J. Shuler. There was also a lease by Harold T. Koch of Mahoning township.

One of the activities of the county welfare department is to see that persons who are charges in other counties do not move into this county and get on the reilef rolls. In order to be eligible for relief in Lawrence county, the person applying must have lived here at least one year before such application is made. For instance, if a family moves into Lawrence county from Mahoning county, O., and at any time within a year applies for aid, the Mahoning county authorities are notified, and arrangements are made for sending the family back. The family cannot be ordered out of the county without first taking the matter up with the Mahoning county authorities. It sometimes happens that when a family, which has moved to this state, learns that Lawrence county is not responsible, they move back to Ohio without the necessity of the local welfare department taking action. This is considered a voluntary removal. During the past year there have been many families sent back to where they belong. On the other hand, when a family from Lawrence county moves to a surrounding county, this county is liable for their support until a residence has been gained in another county.

BIG DAMAGE SUITS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 17.—Suits, totaling $100,000, were filed in court today against the Greyvan Lines Inc., of Detroit, Mich., by 15-year-old Bonetia Bromley of Solmar Manor, Md., whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bromley and her young brother were killed last August 6, at the foot of Fallston Hill.

Americanism: Sending a battleship to save thirty people endangered by Spaniards; doing nothing for the millions endangered by fool drivers.

Why shouldn't the king marry an American commoner? Here, where every man is a king, about forty million have done it.

"WHAT'S CHRISTMAS DINNER WITHOUT A&P BREAD?"

"I always give my family the foods they like best at Christmas time, for what's Christmas dinner without old friends. And A&P Bread is on our Christmas dinner list again this year.

"For years my children would not eat nourishing, wholesome bread. They said it was sort of stale, tasteless. Then one day I bought A&P Bread. And what a difference! The children liked it so much we ate the whole loaf in one meal.

"Since then, my children have grown strong and healthy for we eat A&P Bread regularly. So A&P Bread is one old friend we'll have for Christmas dinner this year. It's so fresh and flavorful it makes the whole meal taste better."

And there's a reason why A&P Bread is tastier, fresher, smoother. It's made of only the finest ingredients money can buy—blended and baked by master A&P Bakers. Try a loaf today! We know you'll agree it's a tastier, fresher, better bread—and one that costs you less money, too!

Will Inspect Highway Patrol

Capt. Charles H. Quarles Will Pay Visit To Franklin Sub-Station Friday

Captain Charles H. Quarles, superintendent of the state highway patrol, is preparing to inspect the six troops under his jurisdiction this week.

Thursday, he will stop at Greensburg, where the troops in that district will concentrate.

Friday, he will be in Franklin, where members of Troop F, are centered, and where the men from the New Castle sub-station, along with others in this vicinity will concentrate. Later in the afternoon he will fly to Bellefonte to inspect the personnel of the troops in that section.

If she thinks him a wonder and resents any criticism of him, he is her husband, her son or her dentist.

The best husbands are those who marry young. If they wait till they have money, they suffer more when they part with it.

AROUND CITY HALL

New Castle police department is located on the state police teletype system and during the past 24 hours a number of messages were received. In one of the messages the local police were informed of the discovery of a skeleton with gaily painted toe and finger nails near Hampdon, N. J. The skeleton contained only a small portion of flesh. The woman had been dead about six months. The legs were bent backward to the head in a potato sack which may prove the means of identification and apprehension of the slayers.

From Tarentum, over the teletype, came a report of a clothing store robbery, the stolen dresses and coats representing a loss of more than $1,400. A message from Auburn, N. Y., told of three men having been arrested for blowing a safe and another message asked police to hunt for Bernard Shook, 17, who fled from Kis-Kyn home, Luzerne county, Pa. Seven automobiles were reported stolen and eight stolen cars recovered during 24 hours in Philadelphia and a message from Kensington, Md., said the police there sought a William B. Reed on a charge of murder. Police were advised to use caution in arresting him as Reed is dangerous and will shoot.

A message from Towando said two men had been taken into custody on suspicion, 150 watches having been found in their possession. Other messages said Dorothy Thomasson, 17, Reading, and Mary Dattilo, 17, Pittsburgh, and Ruby Yates, 17, McKees Rocks, were reported missing from their homes. A short change crew of two men and two women cheated a Bedford, Pa., gasoline man of some money.

The state police is part of an eight-state system. Messages which apply to certain sections are dispatched to those points. In case of large robberies and murder the alarm goes to all eight states, over the system. A copy of the messages are obtained by the state police.

While the police teletype was clicking (it really is a telegraph printing machine, akin to a typewriter) the police radio was busy. A police station in Rhode Island was calling a station in Georgia on police matters. The local station now is mostly employed for work within the city.

Mary Christmas Gets Letters By Hundreds Now

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Santa Claus, Indiana, has a rival for children's fan mail—Mrs. Mary (not Merry) Christmas.

Five feet five, 50 years old and merry as the wife of Santa himself, Mrs. Christmas today at her hotel here, told how it feels to be mistaken for the wife of the jolly gentleman from the North Pole.

"Since I married Sam Christmas and became Mary Christmas," she said, "children from all over the country seem to think I'm the wife of Santa. Every one in Racine, Wis., where I live, knows about me. I get as many as 200 letters a week now."

Holiday Celebrators Given Some Advice

(International News Service)

DENVER, Dec. 17.—Holiday celebrators were given some good advice today by Edward Spangenberger, nationally known authority on the effect of colors.

At the annual convention of Master Painters and Decorators, Spangenberger declared that a "hangover" is greatly accentuated if you sleep in a room where the wall paper carried vari-colored designs.

Soft colors, ivory and cream, he said, make it easier to endure the effect of a night at the bowl. Baby blue, and green are helpful, also, he said.

Hotels To Raise Rates January 1

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—Today's prosperity note:

Because of increasing business, Pittsburgh hotels will return to their so-called "pre-depression rates" January 1, they announced.

Weekly guests will have to pay for a full seven days instead of six as at present, prices of rooms in the higher brackets will be raised and the number of lower priced rooms will be reduced.

You may "favor" peace, but did you ever see anybody escape a cyclone by merely favoring good weather.

After the dinner the devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Paul ONeil after which the business meeting was held. During the business meeting "mystery sisters" were drawn for 1937. A social time was enjoyed, which was brought to a conclusion by the exchange of gifts.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIFTS FOR CHILDREN

WHEN YOU select toys for the young child, try to answer a few questions. Is the toy safe? Is it strong? Can he play with it without the aid of an older person? Will it interest the child? Will he like it over a period of days, weeks and months? Will the top stimulate activity? Can it be used in many ways? Will it cultivate invention and creation in the child? For the child beyond two or three, try to find some playthings which several children will enjoy together.

Let paint not delude you in choosing toys for children. For the young child be sure the paint, if you must have it, is non-poisonous. A few outstanding manufacturers specialize on making painted toys safe. But manufacturers put on the paint for adults, not for children. At the factory which makes more paint brushes than any other in the world, I was told that nearly all persons who do their own painting about the house, especially women, must have brushes with bright colors, while skilled painters practically always choose plain brushes. Many of us are led astray by paint.

Also in choosing toys for children under about six, we are inclined to select those too old," while for older children, too "young."

Limit Number of Toys

Beginning with the baby, keep down the number of toys purchased at one time. Many toys all at once tend to make the child scatterbrained, careless and even destructive. When we will have grown more sensible, we will purchase toys all the year around, adding a new one from time to time, suited to the child's development. Properly then we will spend more money annually for toys than at present.

Beyond the age of three or four let us put emphasis on tools, good tools, and materials for creation and construction. Don't overlook the typewriter, as an excellent gift, especially for the high school and college student.

And good books! In that fine new book, "Birthright of babyhood," by Clarence Sumner, you will find the best list of books for parents to read from to the pre-school child—an excellent Christmas present for a young mother. Go to your librarian for advice on buying books. Don't overlook the old classics for children.

Write me the age of your child, in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope, and I will be glad to send you free a list of books or of playthings, or of both suitable for your child.

New Castle School Board Sells Bonds

Large Premium Offered On $30,000 three Per Cent Bonds At Board Meeting

Offering a premium of $1,692 above par, the E. H. Rollins and Sons Company, of Philadelphia, was awarded the bid for $30,000 worth of three per cent bonds Wednesday night by the New Castle school board. The bonds will refinance an issue which expires January 1, 1937.

Eight bids were received, but Rollins bid was much the best of the lot. Glover and McGregor bid $1,648 above par, Singer, Dean and Scribner, $1,384; Edward L. Stokes and Company, $1,202.40; Granbury, Sackford and Company, $900; W. H. Newbold Sons Company, $615; S. K. Cunningham Co., $549; and Lynch Brothers, $420.

The price is considered to be a satisfactory one and is the highest premium paid for a three per cent bond in many years. Solicitor William J. Moffatt will arrange for the delivery of the bonds and the company will certify the legality of them before acceptance.

Award Third Prize To Margaret George

Wilson Avenue Student Given Third Prize In Tin Mill Essay Contest

Miss Margaret George, of 1707 Wilson avenue, was awarded the third prize of $5 in the essay contest staged by the New Castle plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation on the trip through the plant on October 28. The essay of Miss George follows:

WHAT I SAW ON MY TRIP THROUGH THE TIN MILL

Little did I realize how gigantic the tin mill was heretofore. I was aware of its existence, but as to what it actually was I knew very little.

Then came the great opportunity. Community Day was held and the people were permitted to inspect the mill.

On entering the first thing that attracted my attention was the noise of the machinery. It was so loud that we could hardly hear ourselves talk. We now entered the cold roll department and from there to the hot mill. To me the hot mill department was the most interesting. Now I'll understand what men talk about when they say they're a doubler, a roller, a catcher, and a pair heater. While there I also saw my Dad working and I stayed there for about 20 minutes and watched him work.

Then we went to the warehouse and here we saw large quantities of tin ready for shipment. It is almost impossible to believe that such a large amount of tin is shipped all over the world from these mills. Towards the end we saw many different things for which this tin is used. We went through many other departments and as large as I had imagined the mill to be, on passing through it, I saw that it was larger than I had ever dreamed it to be.

So, Community Day wasn't held in vain. I am one person of many who was far wiser on coming out than when I went in.

OPPOSE ANY MAJOR REVISION OF BANKING LAWS

Administration Attitude Is Seen

Heads Of Fiscal And Lending Agencies Of Government In Conference

EMERGENCY LAWS TO BE CONTINUED

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—The administration will oppose any major revision of the national banking laws at the next session of congress.

Heads of federal fiscal and lending agencies meeting with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau indicated Wednesday that all legislative proposals affecting banks would be of a minor and clarifying nature.

While no definite recommendations were drafted, it was agreed that the majority of President Roosevelt's emergency financial powers should be continued. Morgenthau and RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones shared the opinion that the RFC should continue intact for at least another year.

Terminates January 30

Both feel that the recovery movement has not progressed to the point that permits abandonment of RFC lending authority unless extended by congress, the corporation's power to make loans terminates January 30.

The conferees also favored continuance of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the president's right to alter the value of the dollar. Treasury officials already have indicated that extension of the stabilization fund powers would be asked immediately after congress convenes. These powers expire January 31, under present law.

Several of the president's financial aides appeared sharply divided over the branch-banking question. While the subject was not discussed at the conference, it is known that Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles favors amendment of the banking law to permit "chain-store" bank operators.

Very Little Discussion

Chairman Leo Crowley, of the FDIC, holds the view that branch banking operations would greatly increase the already large concentration of bank deposits in a limited number of institutions.

The vexatious problem of credit control drew little discussion from the conferees.

The Federal Reserve Board has been engaged in a lengthy study to develop means of counteracting injurious expansion threatened by huge inflows of gold from abroad.

Eccles recently indicated the board again will raise legal reserve requirements of banks to cut down mounting excess reserves. The board's study has not yet developed what additional anti-inflation machinery is desirable.

Careful Holiday Driving Urged

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Secretary of commerce Roper Wednesday cautioned holiday drivers to guard against recklessness on the highway in the heavy traffic expected during the Christmas vacation.

"The greatly stimulated traffic flow, as a result of holiday vacation trips, contributes to the rising tide of death," the secretary said.

"Driving during this period tends toward greater speed and more recklessness than any other period during the year."

Girl Sleeps For Year In Hospital Near Erie, Penna

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 16—Christmas and the toys and pretty dolls which mark the holiday for most little girls hold no joys for three-year-old Maxine Yarrington, pitiful young victim of the dread "sleeping sickness"

For more than a year little Maxine has slept in a hospital at Fairview, 12, miles west of here, and though her eyes are wide open she can see nothing.

Today the child had a gay little bedfellow, a Santa Claus doll, whose bright red costume and flowing white beard were reflected in little Maxine's sightless eyes. It was the gift of some unknown and sympathetic persons—perhaps Santa Claus himself.

Stircken in September of 1935 and abed ever since, Maxine will never know the happiness of a healthy child's Christmas. Doctor's fear that only in death will the babe be released from her tiny bed.

Extortion Case Called Mistrial

New York Judge Declares Mistrial As Alfred E. Smith, Jr., Is About To Testify

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Whether Alfred E. Smith, Jr., lawyer-son of the former governor, will ever have to take the witness stand to tell how he paid a blonde $12,900 "hush money" appeared doubtful today.

Smith was just about to take the stand in general sessions court to testify as a state witness against A. Henry Ross, Brooklyn lawyer, and Max D. Krone, a private detective, last night, when Judge Owen Bohan declared a mistrial. Smith was to have followed Catherine Pavlick, blonde clerical worker, who once claimed and later denied that Smith was the father of her baby, as a witness in the extortion trial of the two men.

Boston Man Involved

Assistant District Attorney Eugene J. Finnegan today was "not sure" as to when, if at all, he will move for a new trial for Krone and Ross.

Although both defendants were indicted charged with extorting money from young Smith, they were not on trial for that charge. They had been charged with, and were on trial for, extorting $5,000 from Samuel C. Stampleman, wealthy Boston manufacturer, on a charge of exposing his alleged relations with Helen Conboy, a slim and pretty brunette.

Chest Office To Open Next Week

Convenient Location At 37 North Mercer Will Accommodate Public

WILL BE OPEN PERMANENTLY

A permanent downtown office of the New Castle Community Chest will be opened early next week at 37 North Mercer street, a few doors north of The News office, it was announced by the Community Chest today.

The office will be in charge of an attendant at all times and will serve as a collection and information headquarters.

Chest officers pointed out that a downtown collection location has been a need for some time and that the new quarters, small though they are, will answer that need.

"If subscribers to the Chest want to make their payments there, that's fine," President W. Keith McAfee said. "We want New Castle citizens to know their Chest better and the public will be invited to get Chest informations there at any time."

The board of directors of the Chest authorized a committee of directors to select the site a short time ago. Selection of an executive secretary to manage the office and other work of the organization will be made later.

The new office was being prepared for occupancy today by workmen hired by public-spirited individuals who are financing all the repair costs.

Temporary headquarters have been maintained in fifth floor rooms of the Lawrence Savings & Trust building since before the recent campaign.

There is a story on record of how a Canadian Mounted inspector hunted a criminal for six months over the entire continent until he caught him in Mexico. To avoid extradition formalities he put his prisoner on board a British ship in the Gulf of Mexico, the only ship in the harbor, and which was destined to go to China. There was no help for it and to China they went and then back to Canada where the law at last had its way.

Penn Power Club Christmas Party

Two Hundred Attend Event At The Cathedral On Wednesday Evening

MANY FEATURES MARK PROGRAM

The Cathedral hummed with activity Wednesday evening when 200 members and guests of the Pennsylvania Power company social club staged their annual Christmas party.

At 6:30 a fine banquet was served in the west dining room. In addition to members of the New Castle club guests were present from the clubs of Greenville, Sharon and Beaver Falls.

Bernard Hook, president of the group, introduced the guests of the evening, who in turn gave short talks. The following persons were special guests: Dr. L. M. Popp, Homer Sweeney, Beaver Falls, and L. B. Round, New Castle.

The program, which had been arranged by Emerson Davies, proved very entertaining to the group.

Lewis Thomas presented a comic skit in addition to a number of accordion selections. Because of his exceptional wit, Thomas was a great success and was loudly applauded by those present. A special feature of the program was a group of tumblers from East High school, Youngstown. These boys startled the group with outstanding gymnastics.

Dr. L. M. Popp took the part of a hypnotist, and a great deal of fun and entertainment was derived when he picked subjects from those assembled and exercised his "powers" upon them.

Howard Warnock, N. F. Vidal and Dudley Arnold excelled in a skit entitled, "Time Out".

The climax to the program came when N. F. Vidal, Jr., presented the skit, "The Dionne Quintuplets".

At the close of the program L. B. Round led the group in a community singfest. Christmas carols being featured. Old Violin Plays An Important Part In Trial At Court

Samuel Warren's Beloved "Strad" Shattered When He Was Assaulted At Chewton

An old violin, shattered into a dozen pieces, formed one of the exhibits in the trial of Albert Biega for assaulting Samuel Warren, before Judge W. Walter Braham at Lawrence county court Wednesday afternoon. When the instrument was unwrapped it looked like an ordinary fiddle, but when attorneys began to look it over, an inscription on the inside caused them to regard it with more than ordinary interest.

Pasted on the inside was a little strip of paper bearing the words, Antonius Stradiuvarius Cremonentis Faciebat Anno, 1734. Was it really a famous "Strad?" that was the question. If it was, the instrument was very valuable, and one of very few made by the famous violin maker. The inscription seemed to indicate that it was genuine, especially when the owner, Samuel Warren, stated that he had brought it here from Poland some 40 years ago. He claimed that he had bought it for a genuine "Strad," and that the tone of the instrument appeared to be the same as other instruments of the famous maker.

Warren, who is well advanced in years, is known as an expert violinist in the Chewton district. His services are much sought after at dances and other gatherings. For years he has thrilled merry-makers and audiences with his famous violin. Tears filled his eyes as he beheld his beloved instrument, now completely shattered.

The damage was done following a dance in Chewton. Warren had been invited to play for the dance. On the way home he was assaulted, knocked down and his beloved violin broken. The real cause of the trouble was not apparent at the trial, but Warren identified Biega as the man who had knocked him down and shattered his violin. The jury found Biega guilty as indicted.

TEN MILL TAX LIMIT OPPOSED

School Board Sends Letter To State Representatives Stating Position

In a letter to State Senator William J. Eroe, Jr., and Assemblymen Carmi Preston and James B. Kelso, the New Castle School Board has expressed its vigorous disapproval of the proposed constitutional amendment which would limit tax levies to a total of ten mills. The letter was read Wednesday night before the board by Secretary John B. Bechtol.

In the letter it was pointed out that the debt service of the school district, city and county amounts to more than 10 mills, so that it would be impossible to operate were the new Ziesenheim amendment passed. It has already passed the General Assembly once and needs but one more passage before it goes to the people.

Welfare Relief Cases Are Shown By Reed Report

County Commissioners Get Complete Data On Number Of Cases On Rolls

DECREASE IS SHOWN DURING PAST YEAR

Report 332 Persons From County In Institutions For Mental Care, At Present

Decrease in the number of welfare cases during the past year is shown in a report submitted by Director Edwin O. Reed, to the Lawrence county commissioners this morning.

This was due partly to the fact that some of the cases were taken off the rolls on account of receiving old age pensions, some were transferred to the state relief, and some died.

One of the big items on the list is the number of persons who are being supported in Dixmont, Torrence and other institutions where mental disorders are treated. The number is now 332 cases.

The report as submitted by Mr. Reed to the commissioners is as follows:

The welfare department submits the following report of outdoor relief, county home, local hospitals, and care of mental patients, in the various institutions in the state.

Outdoor Relief: On January 1, 1936, the welfare department was carrying six hundred eighty outdoor relief cases.

During the year one hundred eighty six new cases were accepted. Seventy seven of these were from boroughs and townships and one hundred nine were from the city.

By reason of receiving old age pensions, cases transferred to the state relief, death and various other causes, four hundred four cases were discontinued during the year, one hundred sixty nine of these were from boroughs and townships and two hundred thirty-five were from the city.

On December 1, 1936, there were four hundred sixty two outdoor relief cases. One hundred seventy six of these are in boroughs and townships and two hundred eighty six in New Castle.

County Home: On January 1, 1936, the county home was providing care for one hundred nineteen male and thirty three female residents. On December 1, 1936, there were eighty five male and twenty eight female residents. Twenty one of these are bed patients and cared for in the hospital at the county home.

Local Hospitals: Hospital care was furnished four hundred eighty eight indigent cases in local hospitals during the year.

Mental Cases: December 1, 1936, the welfare department was supporting three hundred thirty two mental cases in the various institutions as follows: Dixmont, 113; Torrence, 101; Warren, 25; Polk, 82; Mercer, 1; Selinsgrove, 8; Wernesville, 8; Farview, 2; Laurelton, 5.

His letter follows:

"I want to thank you for the reception which I received at New Castle last Saturday, also to compliment the Chamber of Commerce on the very delightful program they had arranged.

"It was most gratifying to the Department and to me personally, to see the interest which is taken in the improvements which we are endeavoring to give the citizens of the state and the enthusiasm of the people of New Castle and the community is very encouraging to us."

MAY REOPEN TRADES SCHOOL

Survey Will Be Made To Determine Need Of School At Present

Another step was taken towards the reopening of the trades school of the New Castle public schools when on Wednesday night the board of school directors authorized a survey of the city to determine the need of the school and the type of instruction required. The survey will be made by the State Department of Public Instruction and will cost the local board nothing.

On October 14 at the meeting of the board a committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of reopening the trades schools, closed for the past five years. The committee recommended the re-opening, if it could be done within budgetary limits and said that the total cost to operate it for a year would not exceed $16,250. "If the trades school is reopened" said Dr. Green, "it should be as a high school activity, not as a junior high school activity. Students would attend classes in related subjects for half a day and spend the other half day in the shops."

The state department will be communicated with to see what must be done to have the survey made here.

Cummings Backs Federal Agents In Controversy

Attorney General Offers Strong Defense For Capture Of Harry Brunette

NO SHOTS FIRED OUTSIDE BUILDING

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—With the backing of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, department of justice agents here today stood their ground against bitter criticism of the methods used in blasting Harry Brunette out of his New York City hideaway.

In the absence of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of criminal investigation, who led the machine-gun siege which brought Brunette's capture, Rhea Whitley, head of local G-men, flatly denied statements of city police that they were responsible for locating the Wisconsin bank robber and kidnaper. He also reiterated Hoover's declaration that there had been no agreement between the police, New Jersey authorities, and the government agents as to the time and method of effecting the capture.

Whitley said that Brunette's hiding place not discovered until 7 p. m. of the night preceding the raid, and that Brunnette had been trailed there by a government agent. Six hours later, Whitley said, Hoover had his men ready and swooped down on the bandit. He also made the sensational charge that a police official was the only person who discharged a firearm outside the apartment building, stating that the federal men did all their shooting inside.

Urge Return On Christmas Seals

Lawrence County Society Asks Citizens To Make Return As Soon As Possible

AMOUNT EQUALS 1935 RECEIPTS

Officers of the Lawrence County Anti-Tuberculosis Society today urged citizens to make a return on their Christmas seals this year as soon as possible.

With Christmas only a week away, the amount received this year is not running much ahead of last year, the result being disappointing in a way to the officers of the society. However, it is felt that there will be many who will make their return during the coming week.

If people do not use the seals, they are asked to return them to the society in the envelope which is provided for that purpose. Better yet, however, they are asked to make some contribution to the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, which is the purpose the seals are sold for.

People who wish additional seals can secure them at the Tuberculosis Society Headquarters, 17½ South Mercer street, or at the booth of Victor Wagner at the post office.

Most Of W. P. A. Workers Have Been Re-Employed

With a minimum of delay the Intake and Certification department of the Works Progress Administration is reinstating most of the 664 people who were laid off in the past two weeks, it was stated today.

The layoff order was countermanded at about the time the work had been completed. In the 14th district the employed personnel was reduced from 12,500 to 10,300. Mercer county had 538 layoffs, Butler 289 and Beaver 739.

It is estimated by J. Vale Downie, director that 90 per cent of those who were laid off will be returned to duty. They are being returned as fast as they fill out needs questionnaires and are investigated.

Labor Board Rejects Move By Steel Co.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Labor won a victory over the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiary, Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, before the national labor relations board today.

The board rejected the steel companies' motions to dismiss complaints that the two steel firms have interferred with self-organization of workers, and to postpone hearings on the complaint until after the supreme court acts on the Wagner labor relations law.

Simplicity To Mark Inauguration Plans

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—With simplicity as the keynote, President Roosevelt Wednesday made arrangements for his inauguration on Jan. 20.

In conference with Admiral Cary T. Grayson and vice-president Gerner chairman and vice-chairman, of the inaugural committee, the president approved plans for a comparatively short parade which will be limited to units from the army, navy and marine corps, and corps of cadets from West Point and midshipment from the naval academy.

The governors of the 48 states will be invited to ride in the procession, each to be limited to three automobiles for their staffs.

It was decided not to include any civic marching clubs, political organizations or national guard units.

The president as is customary will take the oath of office from the chief justice in a special stand built on the capitol steps. Following which he will deliver his inaugural address. A stand to seat 14,000 persons will be erected for the capital ceremonies, and other thousands will assemble in the expansive plaza.

There will be no inaugural ball, principally because it is again planned this year to run a nationwide series of birthday balls on Mr. Roosevelt's birthday, Jan. 30, for the purpose of raising funds for the Warm Springs foundation.

Anniversary Of First Flght Of Wrght Brothers

(International News Service)

DAYTON, O., Dec. 17.—Orville Wright emerged from the study of his home here today to receive on the thirty-third anniversary of the Wright brothers' first successful flight, the combined plaudits of a community they made famous as the "cradle of aviation."

It was on December 17, 1903, that Orville and Wilbur Wright bumped to a shaky take-off at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in their home-made bi-plane, the first successful heavier-than-air craft.

For the first time Dayton will be made a scheduled stop on a trans-continental air route as Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., chose this date to inaugurate its service into Vandalia airport, near here.

Two planes, bound for the Pacific coast and one east bound transport will drop down on the runways of the airport during the ceremonies commemorating the Wright brothers' flight.

At noon, Orville Wright was to be guest of honor at a luncheon attended by Gov. Martin L. Davey and Maj. Fred Smith, state aeronautics director. He will review the efforts he and his brother made to realize the dream of heavier-than-air craft, and will trace the birth of aircraft from the day when his father, Bishop Milton Wright, gave them a helicopter, which they later smashed.

Later the party will go to the grave of Wilbur Wright, who died in 1912, for an annual memorial service.

Orville, at 65, is in retirement.

Two Mysterious Packages Are "Left Alone"

Woman Sends Two Mysterious Packages To Two Deceased Blair County Men

(International News Service)

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 17—"Bomb conscious'" Blair county officials today gave wide berth to a mysterious package delivered to the county courthouse this morning—and addressed to two persons no longer living.

Addressed to the late Dr. George D. Robb, one-time principal of Altoona high school, care of "Blair Court House," and to the Rev. Horace Lincoln, who died some time ago care of "the Blair Jail." The package aroused the suspicions of county prothonotary John B. Elliott, when he found some wires sticking out of the wrapping. Postal authorities were notfied at once, and an investigation begun immediately.

Sender of the package, according to a return address in the upper left hand corner of the face of the parcel, flat and 12 inches long, was, "Mrs. Grace Seem Andrew, Wrenthem, Mass." Police officials said the sender might be Grace Seem, former Altoonan, a graduate of Altoona high school and a prominent Methodist church worker while in the city.

Meanwhile, all investigators left the package strictly alone.

Says Edward Was "Railroaded" Off Throne By Cabinet

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Practically charging that Edward VIII was "railroaded" off the throne, today's issue of "The Week" asserts that the constitutional crisis could have been averted "if the cabinet wanted to."

Instead, the news weekly alleges, Edward was tricked into a showdown "because of the general undesirability of the (now) Duke as king, and the need for his immediate removal."

Carnegie-Illinois To Support Plan

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.—The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation today declared its intention to "support determinedly" its three-year-old plan of employe representation, and denied the right of the national labor relations board to "interfere" with its employe dealings under the Wagner labor act.

Peyton's Wife In Tears As She Goes To Bat For "Eddie"

Faces Pardon Board In Harrisburg, Asks For Husband's Release For Christmas

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Eddie Peyton's pretty wife pleaded in tears today for a Christmas gift from the state board of pardons—her ex-bandmaster-husband's release from prison.

Mrs. Peyton appeared at the pardon board hearing on the Pittsburgh night club figure's clemency application, carrying her infant child and accompanied by Mrs. J. J. Peyton, Eddie's mother.

"Let him come home for Christmas," she begged, tearfully.

"Eddie was only acting in self-defense when he struck Leonard Calder. He can do more good at home than in prison."

Peyton was sentenced to serve one to three years on an assault and battery conviction for striking Calder, a Pittsburgher, during a brawl in Peyton's suburban roadhouse in 1935. He has served nine months of the sentence.

Carol Singing For Bessemer

Plans Being Made For Community Carol Sing On December 24

NEIGHBORHOOD IS INVITED

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Dec. 17.—O-yez, O-yez, O-yez to Bessemer, Hillsville, Mount Jackson, Edenburg and surrounding community, the burgess, Carl Montgomery of Bessemer and town council are inviting you to join with us (Bessemer) Christmas eve, December 24, 1936, at the borough building, Bessemer, to sing Christmas carols.

Come one, come all and the more the merrier!

Due to the singing last year, the town council, burgess and people were very much enthused and Burgess Montgomery has named chief of police A. Shoup as general chairman. Shoup, in turn, named representatives from each church in the borough to act as committees to proceed with the plans.

Catholic church, Miss Pauline Sepic and Mr. Joseph Wallage.

Swedish church, Miss Florence Swanson and Miss Lyda Carlson.

Finnish church, Mr. Everett Kiminkinen.

Presbyterian church, Miss Elizabeth Macklin and Mr. Joseph Martin.

Mrs. Joseph McIlvenny was named in charge of the sanwich and coffee committee. The American Legion has donated their hall and services for the serving of coffee and sandwiches.

The committees were named Tuesday and the songs also decided upon. Miss Eleanore Throop is now typing the copies and there will be a practice held in the Bessemer high school music room at 7 p. m. Tuesday, December 22.

The carols will be sung in front of the Borough Christmas eve, at 10 p. m.

The beautiful blue spruce that stands in front of the borough building will be decorated and illuminated to suit the occasion.

The Ethiopian religion is a mixture of pagan, Christian and Jewish rites. They pray before ikons like the Russians but their crosses never display the figure of Christ. They observe the Mohammedan law concerning food, revere the Jewish Sabbath as well as the Christian Sunday, keep the feast days and fast days of both the Greek and Roman churches, and the priests dance before the Ark of the Covenant as David did.

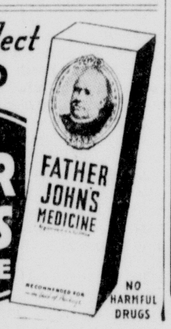
Take FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE



NO HARMFUL DRUGS

My New York By James Aswell

Copyright, 1936, Central Press Association

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—Sports are not my sphere, as a rule, but there is so much chatter about Herr Schmeling, Joe Louis, Mr. Braddock and the dubious Heaveyweight Championship of the World—I spend a lot of time daily chatting with taxi drivers, elevator operators, policemen, newspapermen and folk on that social plane—that I thought I might review the situation here.

The question of whether Schmeling should be permitted to get a whack at the championship by fighting Mr. Braddock (who, in case you've forgotten, still wears the crown) and then skipping back to Germany with his prize, was the only one that intruded itself into New York gabble lately focused on the King and Mrs. Simpson. So it must be pretty important to many people, this Schmeling matter.

I know a policeman, for example who is genuinely perturbed over the possibility that the German may win the championship and abscond with it. The idea breaks his sleep and causes him more worry than a threatened demotion and transfer to Flatbush. Many boxing fans feel the same way.

This is curious and results, I think from the habit of looking upon the Heavyweight Championship of the World as an almost tangible headdress. If a boxer wins it and retires to New Guinea or Hamburg with it in his valise, the fans feel that prize fights may cease altogether, for lack of a fitting reward for the winner.

The truth is that there is not and has never been any such thing as the Heavyweight Champion of the world. The whole world has never competed for the title. Undoubtedly there are fighters in Japan and in the wilds of Africa and the Bronx who could knock the stuffing out of any reigning ring king. They never get a chance, for the ritual of arranging championship bouts is formalized and limited to a select circle of proven box-office favorites.

And even if boxing laurels were won in the open field, with competition unlimited from every remote land—if the title of champion were annexed even with the sort of competition a 100 yard sprint champion must face to win his spurs in the Olympic games—still no one would need to worry about Schmeling making off with the mystic token. Because Tunney retired and took his laurels into retirement to wither Braddock never fought Tunney to win his championship.

Probably the minds of many people, including those, if any, of the Boxing Commissioners would be set at rest if a real gold crown were constructed and placed on the brow of champion boxers. If this crown should then be stolen or taken to some remote snuggery by a winner, never to get into circulation again, prize fighting could languish and fade from the interests of the populace. And that, I submit, would not be a blessing too mixed to be borne.

As it is now, Schmeling can win and hike off to his native land; people can sigh and say (as they strangely never said when Tunney retired): Well, no use fighting any more. The championship is gone." And lo, before you can say Jack Dempsey, a new crown will begin to sprout from the cauliflowers of some promising pug. The trouble of getting someone to win it and carry it off into retirement will face the populace all over again.

I should think, too, that by this time the championship would be small comfort to either Schmeling or Braddock. For both must know that a single gorilla could knock the pair of them out in one round.

Three Ellwood City Young Men Freed By Jury At Butler

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 17—Three Ellwood City young men, whose arrests on charges of immorality grew out of a midnight auto escapade last November 7 between Ellwood City and Portersville, were acquitted by a Butler county jury in criminal court late yesterday.

The defendants were Frederick Rogers, aged 32, an Ellwood City tube mill foreman; William Whitlatch, about 20, an employe under Rogers, and Robert Haswell, aged 20, also of Ellwood City.

JUST MISPLACED

Irate Mother—Willie, how dare you kick your little brother in the stomach?

Willie—His own fault. He turned around.

Because a juryman was so big he could not get into the jury box at Brighton, England, and because all attempts to assist him proved futile, the court discharged him from service.

Plan To Revamp Criminal Laws

State Statutes Will Be Modernized By Legislature It Is Anticipated

ONE RESULT OF CRIME CONFERENCE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Pennsylvania's criminal and enforcement laws, aired for three days at the attorney general's crime conference and found wanting, will be completely modernized at the 1937 general assembly, administration leaders predicted today.

Even before final adjournment of the conference late yesterday, a committee appointed by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, was at work assimilating the "testimony" offered during the session, attended by prominent criminologists, penologists, legalists and socialogists.

The committee, it was assumed, will prepare for introduction at the 1937 legislature proposals that will revamp the present system, condemned by all present as infective, antiquated and costly.

Meanwhile, Margiotti laid plans for a conference of district attorneys of the state for the purpose of devising means of effecting closer co-operation between law-enforcing agencies.

I was ashamed to go to the Doctor!

Little did I realize that most women who have children, suffer from piles (hemorrhoids). My pain became so acute that I was frantic. I couldn't walk, I couldn't sleep, I couldn't sit down. Finally I went to my doctor. He told me that I had hemorrhoids, and recommended a suppository to be used in the privacy of my own home.

If you suffer as I did, let me recommend that you get a $1.00 box of IRIL suppositories containing 12 treatments. This wonderful prescription stops the agony and torture within a few seconds. Containing no narcotics or harmful drugs, they are safe and easy to use, and best of all, can be depended upon to give you complete relief from all pain and discomfort.

P.S. IRIL also comes as an ointment for the relief of itching, bleeding and burning of external or protruding piles.

Universal Plant Employes Enjoy Annual Party

Approximately 150 Attend Christmas Event At Orr's Hall Last Night

Christmas comes but once a year, so the old song goes, but it doesn't come any more regularly than the Christmas party of the athletic association of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company. The fourth annual party was held Wednesday evening in the Orr hall on Grove street, with about 150 present.

The first item on the program was a Christmas dinner, which was served by a crew in charge of Fred Weisbaker. Waiters were Tom Francis, Harry Evans, George Shook and Earl Walker. Speeches were banned and after the dinner the men enjoyed the Christmas tree giving, supervised by Santa Claus, George Lamoree. Every man present received a gift.

During the evening orchestral music enlivened the hours and the evening was spent in sociability. The affair was handled by Joseph Adams, president of the association, assisted by the secretary, William Benninghoff. Pep singing was directed by George Anthony. Special guests were W. Keith McAfee, president of the company; Clyde M Whittaker, secretary, and Herbert S Kirk. The table service was in charge of Fred Horchler.

Pre-Christmas Buying Season Will Get Under Way In Earnest Here

EVENING HOURS WILL BE OBSERVED

New Castle merchants will start their last week's shopping period prior to Christmas by observing evening hours, and a general stimulus to Christmas shopping is expected to result.

By agreement, the merchants decided to start the evening hour period for shopping on December 17, and all the stores, with the exception of the jewelry stores who were exempted because of the particular seasonableness of their merchandise, have adhered to this agreement.

From now until Christmas the stores will remain open until 9 p. m. to accommodate shoppers who cannot get downtown to do their shopping in the daytime.

An unusually heavy holiday trade is expected during the last week of the pre-Christmas period.

Young Roosevelt Is Rapidly Recovering

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Recovered from a streptococcus infection of the throat following use of a new drug, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the president, today looked forward to early release from Massachusetts General Hospital where he has been confined since Thanksgiving day with sinus trouble.

His fiancee, Miss Ethel DuPont, munitions heiress who has been a daily visitor at his bedside, has returned to her Delaware home.

Revelation that young Roosevelt had been critically ill with the infection was made by his physician, Dr. George L. Tobey, Jr., in denying reports he had "cured" the sinus trouble with a new treatment. When Roosevelt took a turn for the worse last week the hemolytic infection was discovered. Dr. Tobey said he employed a comparatively new chemo-therapeutic agent known as prontylin.

The weakness of law is that you can break a lot of them and still be decent or break none and still be rotten.

Yankees Pitching More Than Hitting Helped Win Pennant

Figures Reveal That Yanks Got Best Pitching Of Any Team In Junior Circuit

Bob Grove Most Effective Pitcher In League, Bridges Wins Most Games, 23

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Cold figures usually make dry reading, but a study of the official American League pitching records, released Wednesday disclose some surprising highlights on individual players and reveal the true reason for the collapse of some teams and the success of others.

These figures show, for instance, that the Yankees had the best pitching in the league, judged by any standard, and indicate that it was Yankee pitching, even more than Yankee slugging, that brought the team a pennant and a world series victory.

Conversely, the figures show that although the Indians led all in hitting, their highly praised pitching staff was something of a flop.

Grove Most Effective

Finally, the averages reveal that old Bob Grove was again, as he was in 1935, the best pitcher in the league, and they indicate that the sensational youngster, Bob Feller, may become another Walter Johnson.

Grove was the hardest man to score on in the league. He allowed only 2.81 runs per nine-inning game and was the only pitcher in the league to allow less than three runs a game.

Feller was second with an earned run average of 3.34. It is worthy of note that the Yankees place four—Murphy, Pearson, Malone and Ruffing—in the first nine, all of whom yielded less than four runs a game.

The ranking ten are, in order, Grove, Feller, Murphy, Allen, the only Indian to make the grade, Appleton, Bridges, Pearson, Malone, Ruffing and Kelley, the aged Athletic rookie.

There were only five 20-game winners in the league: Bridges, who was tops with 23, Kennedy of the White Sox with 21, and Allen, Ruffing and Wes Ferrell with 20 each. Gordon Rhodes of the A's had the dubious distinction of being the only 20-game loser, and, as might be expected, Jack Knott of the Browns took the worst beatings, he having had 174 runs scored against him.

Depend On Feller

We have been hearing for years about that wonderful Cleveland pitching staff but the figures show that Hudlin was absolutely last among the regular pitchers of the league with nine earned runs a game charged against him; Harder gave up 5.16 runs, Blaeholder 5.10, less 4.89 and the Peerless Hildebrand 4.88.

Off that record, the Indians surely will have need of young Feller's Wizardry, incidentally, that young man fanned 76 of the 227 hitters who faced him, which means he fanned one out of every three who stepped to the plate.

Titans Defeat Youngstown By Score Of 38-16

Krivosh And Grubb High Scorers In Battle At Westminster College Floor

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 17.—In a game that started slowly and badly for the Titans, Westminster's Roarkmen came back strong to defeat Coach Ray Sweeney's Penguin five, 38-16.

Throughout the game the Youngstown cagers gathered only three field goals to 15 for the Titans. In the second half, the Penguins failed to register from the field. On the defense, the Titans looked much better than in the Salem game, but their offensive play was ragged. At least a dozen goals slipped out of the Titan score box by wild shots and failures to convert on set-up plays.

Kenny Grubb, lanky Titan center, again played a veteran game at center for the Titans, and tied Krivosh for high point score, with 10 each. Demo's shooting was off color throughout the first half, but he came back to register three goals in the final frame.

Reserves Get Chance

In the second half the game was turned over to the Reserves with heavy substitutions from both sides. Roark used 11 men, and Sweeney 12.

Although the Titan game was an improvement over their Salem fray, the Roarkmen have still failed to build up an offensive game that will guarantee them a chance to win against such opposition as Pitt. Tech, George Washington, W. and J., Geneva and other opponents to be met later in the season.

Expect Big Crowd At Benefit Show

Wallick And Marchoni To Meet Different Opponents Monday

MORRIE SUBER TO MEET SAILOR

Boxing and wrestling benefit shows are the custom during the holiday season, the Louis-Simms fight having net the children of Cleveland $10,000 worth of toys and while Promoter Peter Askounes holds no hopes of his benefit mat show for St. George's Greek Orthodox church, next Monday night, bringing an amount anywhere near that figure, he does believe the S. R. O. sign will be displayed. The bouts, four in number, will be staged at the Arena garden, Neshannock avenue.

Promoter Askounes had intended to keep the Arena garden dark insofar as wrestling was concerned until after Santa Claus day but following a conference with St. George church officials decided to produce another show before Christmas. He believes the calibre of the bouts arranged plus the benefit phase will stimulate attendance and that Monday night will be the banner night for wrestling since its inception here.

Blake Vs. Marchoni

Bill Middlekauf has been matched against Allen Eustace. Middlekauf has not wrestled here previously. Eustace has. There is no questioning the ability of Eustace. He demonstrated he likes wrestling and not clown tactics and the bout may turn out to be a humdinger. They have been matched to wrestle 90 minutes or one fall.

In another bout Leo Wallick and Angelo Martini have been calendared. Several weeks ago Wallick and Tony Marchoni wrestled 53 minutes, or until Marchoni injured an arm and Referee Tom McMahon stopped the bout. Marchoni will take on Bob Blake here Monday night. A good return bout would have been Marchoni against Wallick. They appeared very evenly mated.

Sailor Parker will come here to meet Morrie Suber of New Castle who is in hard training for the bout. Suber's chief handicap is weight. Providing he is not outweighed the fans can expect Suber to do his part to score a fall. He wrestled last in a 15 minute exhibition with Bob Blake. The fans like to see Morrie in action. The first bout Monday will start at 8:30 p. m.

Braddock-Schmeling Bout May Be Taken To Berlin, Germany

Would Draw Crowd Of 200,000 In Big Olympic Bowl, Is Belief

Braddock Would Get $500,000 For His End, Scanlan Is Interested

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The one thing they forgot to say about the newspaper business is that you get to meet so many interesting people, if you don't watch yourself. A few years ago, it was a gentleman who had decided to hire Bobby Jones to do something about something up around the Canadian border. I think it was to manage Niagara Falls. On another occasion, a pretty well known New York attorney was all for taking Schmelling and Sharkey off on an ocean liner, so that he could make everybody else pay to see the fight by television.

Today, it's a Mr. Dennis B. Scanlan, a New York business man with offices on Fifth avenue. He's going to take the world's heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling and James J. Braddock to the Olympic stadium in Berlin—if they'll let him.

Would Draw 200,000

He says that, if he can wangle matters to the pleasure of all, he has the sanction of Braddock's manager, Joe Gould. So does Joe Gould. He, meaning Scanlan, says he has the permission of Col. Kilpatrick, the old Yale blue, to negotiate terms in Germany for Madison Square Garden, although the colonel swelled visibly on that one and began to beat his breast. Mr. Scanlan said further that he represented a "European group," adding:

"I'm sailing for Germany directly after Christmas to open negotiations with the government, looking toward the transfer of the fight to Berlin, where it will draw 200,000 people and $1,500,000. Certainly, the Garden is interested. It'll make money and, at the same time, get what it hasn't got now: An option on the winner's services. Joe Gould will give us entire co-operation."

Braddock $500,000

Yes, that's what Joe Gould will certainly give. And here, when interviewed today, is what he is promising himself that he'll consent to take:

A guarantee of $500,000, to be posted in an American bank before he leaves with his fighter; a 50 per cent cut of the profits; the radio and moving picture rights; an American referee, an English and a French judge. He went on to mention an extra $30,000 for something but, by that time, it didn't really seem to matter.

For what Mr. Joe Gould was announcing was that the Braddock-Schmeling prize fight would be held, as scheduled, in the Garden's Long Island bowl on the night of June 3.

UNIVERSAL A. A.

Universal A. A. will oppose the K. Pulaski basketball team tonight on the K. Pulaski floor, Atlantic avenue. Manager Gibson of the Universals requests all members of his team to be at the Pulaski floor at 7:45 o'clock.

Larry Kelley's Mother Speaks

Proud That Son Is National Football Hero, Was Never Very Talkative

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—All the world knows him as Larry Kelley of Yale. Outstanding football player of the year and winner of the Heisman trophy. Captain and end of the Yale team. Pass-snaring genius, colorful opportunist and wise-cracker extraordinary. Phi Beta Kappa and star scholar of the senior class.

All the world has had its say about him except the one person in the world who might be presumed to know him best—his mother, Mrs. Larry Kelley, Sr., of Williamsport, Pa. What does she think of him?

"Well," laughs the charming Mrs. Kelley, "it's all been a surprise to me. But a pleasant surprise.

National Hero.

"I never dreamed that my little boy would grow up to be a national football hero. I always believed he would make good, of course, in whatever he did, but I never thought he would put our little town on the map in such a hurry."

Mrs. Kelley shook her neatly coiffeured head in amazement while her grey-haired but youthful-appearing husband beamed with pride.

"You know," Mrs. Kelley continued, "Larry was always a good boy. I don't mean that he was a molly-coddle at all. In fact, he could get into as much boyish mischief as the next one. But he was never bad, and he never gave me any trouble.

"It's surprising to find that he has earned a reputation as a talker. Around the house he never had very much to say. He was always rather quiet.

Liked Baseball.

"Somehow I never thought of him as a football player because he was always playing baseball. Indeed, he never went out for football until his last year in high school. But when I look back now, I can see that he must always have had the idea in the back of his head. I think that's why he wanted to go to Peddie—because he thought he could get better instructions there about football.

"Yes, I've got many a thrill out of watching him play but never half as much as I did yesterday when I saw him stand up there before that microphone and all those men and speak so easily. I just felt like bubbling over with happiness.

"It was a little sad in a way, too, because for the first time I realized that my little boy had suddenly become a full grown man. I think what made me realize it most was the way everybody kept referring to him as Kelley of Yale instead of Williamsport. It somehow seemed as if everybody had a share in him.

"Oh, well," she sighed, "I supose boys will grow up."

New Rules For Grade Teachers

Four Years Post-High School Training To Be Requisite For Teachers

SUPT. GREEN SENDS BOARD SUGGESTION

In the future selection of teachers for the New Castle public schools, preference will be given to applicants having a four-year post-high school training. This was decided Wednesday night by the New Castle school board at its regular monthly meeting.

The matter was brought to the attention of the school board by Dr. C. C. Green in a communication which appears at the end of this article. Dr. Green explained that high school teachers all have four or more years of post-high school education. This should now be extended to elementary teachers, he said.

A. C. Hyde suggested that it was not quite fair to a girl who had taken two years work in a state teachers college expecting to teach, and then to find that she had to have four years. Dr. Green explained that the state teachers colleges do not graduate students under four years. A two-year student merely gets a temporary certificate

The board finally passed the resolution, with the understanding that all other things being equal, preference would be given to four-year graduates seeking positions.

The report of Dr. Green follows:

It now requires four years of post high school work for a prospective teacher to be graduated from a teachers college in Pennsylvania. This regulation is based upon the assumption that a training period of four years should be the minimum requiremnt to meet present day standards under ordinary circumstances. However, a temporary provision is made whereby a candidate may attend a teachers college two years and receive a temporary standard certificate. This arrangement is provided to accommodate those districts which are unable to find a sufficient number of teachers with the full four years of training.

In my judgment the time has arrived when the dignity and importance of the school district of the city of New Castle demands that we give preference to applicants for positions as teachers in the elementary school who have had four years of post high school training and are graduates of a teachers college or of a liberal arts college with elementary certificates.

If we continue to accept candidates with less than four years of training we shall soon fall behind the procession in our standards of instruction. If any candidates with less than four years of training are accepted they should be required to continue their studies through extension classes or summer schools until they receive a teachers college diploma.

When we submitted our plan for rating candidates on the basis of merit to leading educational authorities for constructive criticism the most frequent criticism was our "two year minimum" for elementary teachers. The state department especially urges us to accept leadership in this direction.

The adoption of this policy would not add to the expense of operation. Our retrenchment in vocational education and in junior high school industrial arts and home economics invites us to adopt some compensating feature such as the one indicated above.

It appears to me that the children of any community are entitled to the best instruction which is available and it is obvious that it is our responsibility to see that they get it.

Americanism: Patiently enduring rats till they drive us wild; enthusiastically burning the house to get rid of them.

Come to think of it, nobody considered Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini "big enough" to boss their countries.

Leaves somehow remind us of Wall Street brokers. They always fall down when the sap quits coming.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Days are getting shorter and the nights are getting longer. The weather will soon be getting colder while our hearts are growing warmer. The snow will fall and the wind will howl. What could be nicer than a wife and a fire. Let's go skating or maybe a little skiing. The cold air makes the face burn and the hands and feet grow numb. We return to the fire and pop corn. Maybe this picture is not clear to you but what's the difference, everyone has his own ideas. As days come and days go the harder it becomes to follow my thoughts. What think'st thou?

• • •

I have been asked to make this announcement; The Rotary ladies night will be held on Monday, December 28. This is the final word concerning the right date.

Not in season but what's the difference . . .

One of our friends tells the story of the wife who told her husband to hurry as she had a surprise for him. He learned when he sat down at the dinner table that it was a home-made pie which was narrow and long in shape. He showed surprise. "What's the matter, honey?" inquired the wife. "Why I have never seen such a peculiar shaped pie" he said. "I know dear," the wife answered. "It does appear to be a peculiar shape but it was the shortest rhubarb I could buy."

I second the motion . . .

MOTOR LIBRARIES SUPPLY BIG NEED

HARRISBURG — Twenty-six traveling libraries containing 1,344 books were sent from the Extension Division of the State Library within the last few weeks, Superintendent of Public Instruction Lester K. Ade, announced today.

In addition to these suitable materials for programs of some fifteen clubs, for thirty-two public school libraries and 119 general libraries were issued during the same period. In all, more than 2,000 books were shipped to 174 places in the state. To facilitate the use of this work and to develop a further interest in the use of extension libraries, a field worker spent a greater part of last month in different parts of the state. One new library was organized.

Market Drifts Irregularly Lower, Few Issues Lose Scattered Points

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The stock market drifted irregularly lower today, with a few scattered issues sustaining losses of a point and more.

Houston Oil, Newport Industries and Canada Dry Ginger Ale were under pressure and lost a point or more each.

Motor shares were particularly weak as a group, as Chryselr slipped more than a point and General Motors slightly less

Steels, despite optimistic reports on operations and additional orders for rails from some of the nation's carriers, were slightly lower. Transue and Williams, though, jumped close to two points into new high ground at one time.

A moderately firm tone prevailed in the oil section, Consolidated Oil rising to a new peak for the year in response to the 20-cent dividend declaration made late yesterday. Standard of Indiana and Standard of New Jersey also were improved.

Weakness in Douglas unsettled aviation shares. Utilities were mixed. Coppers lost ground.

Bonds were irregular. Grain, with the exception of rye, were lower. Cotton also turned downward.

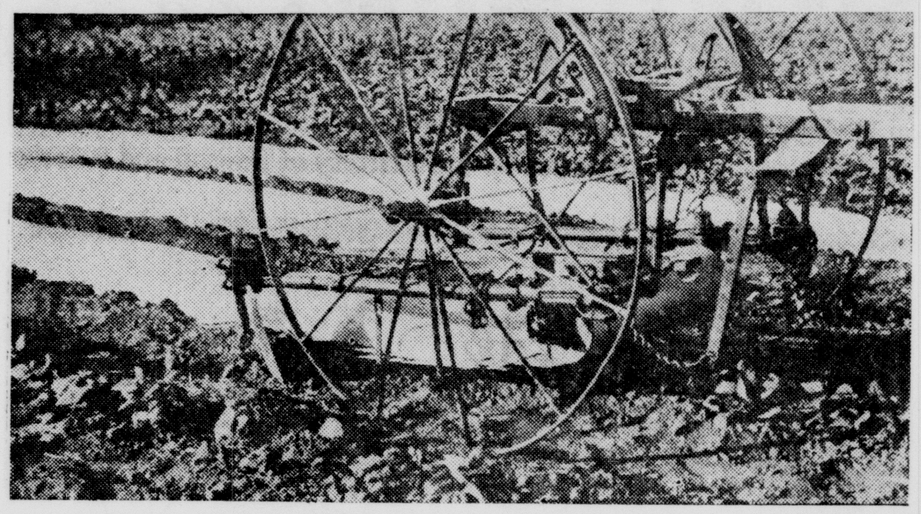
Putting Paper Overcoats on Tender Plants



This machine, which looks like a cultivator, is the invention of Alfred Pfeiffer, San Antonio, Tex., shoe salesman, and is expected to save truck farmers thousands of dollars yearly. It puts paper overcoats on garden produce to protect it from frost. Hitherto the farmer had to cover the produce with earth at the cost of twenty to thirty dollars an acre. Pfeiffer claims paper, which will serve the purpose better, will cost less than ten dollars an acre. (Central Press)

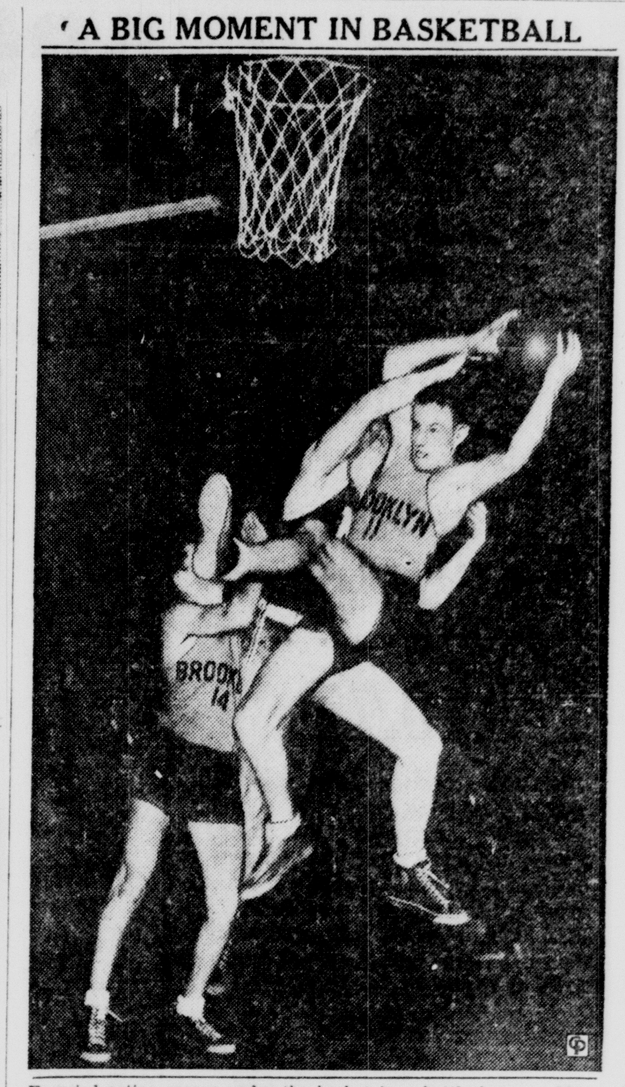
HAS 14 FRACTURES IN 12 YEARS

The "girl with the breakable body" may well be a title affixed to Dorothy Smith, 12, of Muskegon, Mich. For Dorothy has just had her 14th fracture, her right leg, in a fall in her home. Her right arm was still in a cast from a fracture received in September when she fell. Her right leg has been broken four times, her right foot once, her left leg four times and her right arm five times!

Fugitive From the Guillotine

Gennario Caputo's left hand is not raised in prayer. Being held in New York for extradition to France where he escaped under sentence of death, Caputo is shown begging his jailers to eject photographers attempting to take his picture. He was working as a longshoreman in New York when captured, and faces death on the guillotine on his return. (Central Press)

A BIG MOMENT IN BASKETBALL



Frenzied action ensues under the basket in a battle between Manhattan and Brooklyn college teams in New York's Hippodrome. The ball has just been retrieved by Rosenblum of Brooklyn after Capt. Jack McGuirk (behind him) had shot vainly for a basket. Dash (No. 14) is hurrying to the assistance of his teammate, Rosenblum.

Smart Beach Beauty

The warm sunny beaches of the southland are calling, and here is a smart beach beauty showing what is being worn this season. Ann Sothern's beach ensemble consists of pajamas of white water-proofed crepe, with halter top of Chinese print in which blue predominates. The white cape has a lapel collar faced with the print.
